

Chapter 636

The message had been sent, but Black Rose didn't reply. She also didn't reply to his previous message.

Chuck was speechless. Did she have to be angry for so long? He had stood Black Rose up last time because he forgot to bring her food. She had been angry ever since and refused to talk to him. At the very least, she could give him a reply. Even a simple ok would be nice, or even a comma was acceptable!

However, Chuck couldn't do anything about it.

Women were so complicated.

Chuck put away his phone and boarded this extremely luxurious plane with Adriana.

This plane was probably a customized airplane. Maybe the owner of the airport was the Whitlock Family. Otherwise, how could this plane be so luxurious?

He had never felt this way, even on Karen or Willa's private jet.

Of course, Chuck didn't know that both Karen and Willa could afford these private jets. They were just people who weren't after extravagant luxuries.

Both of them were minimalists.

"Where is this place exactly?" Chuck inquired.

He was dressed up to attend a glorious banquet.

Adriana had also dressed up gorgeously. Chuck knew that the place they were heading to must be a banquet of some sort.

Otherwise, why would they dress up like this?

Chuck suddenly thought of something. Was he going to meet Willa at some sort of banquet?

He probably would. Thinking of this, Chuck heaved a sigh of relief. He would take her away if the both of them were attending the same banquet!

Chuck couldn't wait to meet Willa.

If he met her again, Chuck had a feeling that he would fall asleep on her legs for the next three days.

It was to make up for Willa's disappearance during this period of time.

Chuck missed her too much.

Adriana leaned back against her seat with a blank expression. She didn't plan to answer Chuck's question.

Hence, Chuck had no choice but to sit down.

After a while, Adriana walked to the front. Nelson was also dressed in a neat suit and some leather shoes.

"Miss Adriana."

"How's it going?" Adriana asked.

"The only guests attending Loomis and Willa's wedding other than their own members will be the Whitlock family. The other secret family won't be attending," Nelson replied after thinking.

"Not attending? What about Chadrick? Is he not coming?" Adriana questioned.

"Miss Adriana, you may not know about this, but Chadrick was the one behind everything. Once when Chuck had been monitored in secret, and the time where he was almost captured. All of it was done by Chadrick..." Nelson sneered.

The only reason why a father would be so cruel to his son was probably because Chuck was a piece of unwanted trash. He deserved it!

"Are you serious?" Adriana was surprised. Chuck was Chadrick's son. How could he do that to his own son?

"It's true, so I can guarantee that Chadrick will not appear at all. After all, he probably hopes for Chuck's death" Nelson sneered cruelly.

"What on earth is Chadrick thinking?... Forget it, it's better if he doesn't come. By the way, have you prepared the wedding gift for Loomis?"

"Yes, Miss Adriana. Everything is ready."

"I hope this wedding will be a success. We'll be sure to give them a great gift."

"Miss, don't worry, we have made the necessary arrangements," Nelson bowed his head.

"Good."

Then, Adriana slowly returned to her seat. She saw that Chuck was nervous.

Chuck would soon understand what one word from her could do.

She would be able to save him from hell!

.....

"Aunt... Auntie Karen, I can't get through to Chuck's phone," Yvette ran to Karen's room frantically.

Upon hearing this, Karen was shocked. She had been looking for news about Willa with Betty these few days, and had not paid much attention to Chuck.

"Don't worry, let me try first," Karen was using a satellite phone, but she still couldn't get through as well.

"Auntie, what's going on? Did something happen to Chuck? He hasn't come back for two days. I thought he was in a bad mood yesterday, so... I should have come to find you yesterday," Yvette was extremely anxious.

For the past two nights, she had been tossing and turning, unable to fall asleep at all.

She was worried that something bad might have happened to the absent-minded Chuck.

She hadn't gone to Karen on the previous night because she knew that Black Rose was with Chuck. Therefore, she had been slightly relieved, and refrained herself from disturbing Chuck.

In addition, Yvette understood that Chuck was feeling down and needed his own personal space.

However, she didn't expect to be unable to contact him as of the moment.

"I can't get through either. Try calling Black Rose," Karen narrowed her eyes. She immediately called Black Rose, but was also led to voicemail.

Karen was shocked. She immediately grew anxious and muttered, "Oh no, something has happened to Chucky..."

Betty, who had been busy with work, was shocked. Yvette immediately felt anxiety surging in her heart...

.....

"You b*stard, did you block me or did you go somewhere without a signal? I can't even get through."

In the private room, Alexandrina snorted and made several phone calls, but the call didn't register at all.

What was going on?

Was Chuck ignoring her?

When she was bored just now, she was thinking of asking Chuck to come over to accompany her and massage her shoulders.

After all, Chuck's performance from last time was quite good. She didn't like to be touched by others, so she wanted him to come over.

However, she couldn't even get through.

Alexandrina tried several times and failed. She muttered, "Chuck, you're making me so angry. Just watch, I'll teach you a lesson!"

Knock! Knock!

Someone knocked on the door.

"Come in," Alexandrina answered absent-mindedly, feeling a bit mad.

All because Chuck had ignored her.

The one who came in was Frieda.

She had completed her first mission and gained a lot of experience. This time, she had almost died, but still managed to survive.

"What are you doing here?" Alexandrina asked coldly.

Since she had failed to contact Chuck, she was in a bad mood.

"I've completed the mission," Frieda was secretly fuming. Was Alexandrina using her as a punching bag just because she was angry?

Right then, Frieda wanted to shout, "What are you so proud of? I have your nude photos!"

"So what? Accept another one, I'll have someone to arrange for it."

Alexandrina said coldly, "By the way, call Chuck. Don't you know him?"

"Me? Why?" Frieda was stunned. Was Alexandrina angry because of Chuck?

When she took the photos last time, she had gotten to know that Alexandrina actually liked Chuck. Seeing as Alexandrina was mad, did he reject her?

Frieda sneered silently. Chuck really had bad taste in women.

He wasn't interested in Frieda back then. Now, he wasn't interested in Alexandrina.

"Just do as I say!"

Frieda was pissed, but now was not the time to fight with Alexandrina. She took out her cell phone and tried calling him. Chuck was lucky since she was going to call him and leave him a trace of her contact number!

Fortunately, she had changed her phone number. Chuck wouldn't know that it was her.

However, she was also led to voicemail, stating that his phone was not in the service area.

What was going on?

"Boss, I can't get through," Frieda was honest.

"Even you can't contact him?" Alexandrina suddenly stood up. So it wasn't because he had blocked her?

On second thought, how could he have blocked her? After all, he was her lover!

Furthermore, Chuck was counting on Alexandrina to help him find Willa.

"Yeah, the call can't be connected. Look," Frieda made another call in front of Alexandrina. She really couldn't get through to him.

Alexandrina's expression fell as she muttered, "What's the matter? Did something happen to Chuck?"

She felt that it was too strange that she suddenly couldn't get through to his phone.

Did something happen?

Suddenly, a thought occurred to Alexandrina. She immediately went out, grabbed her cell phone and called her subordinate, ordering, "Find out Chuck's whereabouts. Now!"

Soon, Alexandrina obtained the results from her subordinates. In fact, Chuck had not returned home for two days, and no one knew where he had gone.

"Chuck, what are you doing? Don't mess around," Alexandrina found Karen's phone in a hurry.

She bit her lips and dialed the number.

She could ask Karen about it, she'd know for sure.

However, how should Alexandrina start? If she were to ask Karen directly, she was sure Karen would be suspicious of her. Alexandrina could only hint at it. After a long time, the call was finally connected...

In the private room, Frieda's expression was changing. She had a sinister and near insane smile plastered on her face.

"Oh, Chuck, are you finally going to have an accident? How lucky. I was planning to kill you myself, but... I guess you're a lucky man... I hope you die a gruesome death!"

Frieda smirked to herself. What a piece of good news!

Chapter 637

"Where are we?"

Chuck was confused. The plane had been flying for a very long time, and they had entered a mountain.

To his surprise, there was a huge empty space under the mountain. Several private jets were already parked there, and the whole place looked ostentatious.

What kind of place was this?

How could there be anyone living in the mountains? It seemed like they were living in seclusion. However, apart from being surprised, Chuck also seemed to have understood.

They didn't require cars to go out, they could just use planes.

Perhaps this was the life of a billionaire?

This was the true luxurious lifestyle. Everything could be sent through planes - food, drinks, and even women...

"You'll see for yourself later," Adriana replied.

Of course, the Whitlock family lived inside a mountain too. Although the mountain looked ordinary, no one would've noticed that there were multiple security cameras monitoring the movement of people entering and exiting the mountain.

There were even multiple guns aimed at the visitors.

If anyone knew the exact numbers, they would be shocked.

Since Adriana had said so, Chuck naturally stopped asking any more questions. She wouldn't answer them anyways.

At this moment, he only wished to see Willa. He would try his best to endure everything else.

The plane headed for the drop point and was about to land.

"Chuck, don't wander around. Follow me," Adriana said.

If she wanted Chuck to rely on her, she had to show him her true abilities, and how much weight her words carried.

Once she conquered him, it would only be a matter of time for him to marry into her family.

"Got it," Chuck was not dumb. He understood that he shouldn't walk off by himself.

He wasn't here to cause trouble but to find Willa. He wouldn't do anything else either way.

The plane finally landed.

Adriana walked in front while Nelson followed behind them with the gifts.

Chuck fell speechless upon checking his phone. Black Rose hadn't replied anything at all. What was going on with her?

Even if she was angry, she needn't do this.

The only thing Chuck could do now was to apologize to her after returning. Then, she would probably calm down, right?

After all, Black Rose wasn't someone who would just put up an attitude for no reason.

They got off the plane.

Chuck saw a gold Rolls Royce coming from afar.

A man in black stepped out of the car and politely greeted them, "Welcome, Miss Whitlock."

They had noticed Adriana's private jet and had come out to greet her.

Adriana nodded and then scanned her surroundings. All other planes belonged to the Yeager family, so it meant that the Yeager family hadn't invited any other outsiders for today's wedding.

In fact, it could be said that the other families were not even qualified to be invited.

Although the Yeager family did not want to be known by the public, they had certainly sent out invitations to the other two hidden families. The Whitlock family was one of them.

This was simple courtesy on the Yeager family's part. It was up to the recipients to choose to attend.

The hidden families were quite secretive and would never reveal themselves to the public. There were only two other hidden families, so the Yeager family would naturally invite them.

Adriana was not surprised. Similarly, she thought that other people were not qualified to attend the wedding. If she were to marry Chuck, she too would not invite outsiders, because other normal families were also not allowed to visit the Whitlock family.

However, was the other hidden family really not planning to attend?

This was the only thing that caught Adriana's attention.

"Get in," Adriana looked at Chuck, who had a strange look on his face.

"Okay," Chuck got into the car.

The man who greeted them glanced over at Chuck. For Adriana to bring this guy over personally, he had to be Adriana's boyfriend.

He was envious. It appeared that the wealthier one was, the more unique their tastes were.

The gold Rolls Royce drove quickly. After a while, Chuck saw a white building which looked like a castle. It looked absolutely luxurious.

Where on earth was this? Which family did it belong to?

As he approached the building, Chuck noticed that the entire castle had already been decorated for a grand wedding ceremony.

It was only then that he realized he was here to attend a couple's wedding ceremony.

Adriana had brought him to someone else's wedding, so was Willa also here to attend the wedding too?

"Whose wedding is this?" Chuck inquired.

The decoration was beautiful and luxurious. The couple must be very happy and excited to be married.

"You'll know soon," Adriana wouldn't comment any further.

She wanted to show off her capabilities to Chuck through this wedding.

"Alright. I just want to meet Willa. I don't care about any other things," Chuck stated.

He made it clear that he would take Willa away once he saw her. Nothing else.

"You will meet her later," Adriana replied calmly.

"That's good then," Chuck was no longer worried. It was not necessary for Adriana to lie to him.

"This way please."

Adriana, Chuck and Nelson all entered the castle.

Chuck was especially looking forward to finally seeing Willa amongst the invited guests again after so long.

He would definitely hug her once he saw her.

After Willa's disappearance, Chuck had come to realize that Willa was indeed really important to him.

Chuck's heart was filled with shock and disbelief as he entered the castle. How many years was this castle around for?

"You'll be even more surprised if you were to go to my house," Adriana remarked blandly.

Her house was like a palace. There were all kinds of antiques strewn everywhere at her place. Therefore, the value of her house alone was priceless!

"No, I won't go," Chuck shook his head and refused.

Why would he even visit her house? To marry her? He would never do that.

"You will," Adriana didn't comment any further.

Her confidence made Chuck feel a little disgusted, but he did not refute her.

There was no point.

Once they entered the hall, Chuck noticed that it was filled with people. After all, there were thousands, or even millions of members that belonged to the hidden family.

Chuck was dumbfounded. There were many beautiful women around, some of them coming as the partners of some members from the Yeager family.

All of them had gorgeous figures.

Everyone in the Yeager family slowly started to quiet down upon noticing Adriana's arrival. They turned to stare at her.

Chuck, whom they were not familiar with, was completely ignored by them.

After all, as a hidden family, they never took outsiders seriously.

Who even was Chuck to them?

Without Adriana, he wouldn't have been able to enter anyways.

Chuck scanned the crowd, eager to meet Willa. He was really excited to see her.

"This way!"

Someone was leading the way. There was a special room for guests.

Even though there were very few guests present.

"Stop looking around. You'll see her later," Adriana reminded.

Chuck couldn't do anything about it. Indeed, he couldn't just stand at the entrance to search for Willa. He would be taken as a joke.

He followed Adriana and sat down, but he kept his eyes on the crowd. However, there were so many people present, and some tall ones even blocked his view. Chuck couldn't find Willa anywhere and he grew even more anxious.

At the same time, Chuck was also curious as to why Willa would attend someone's wedding.

Why didn't she look for him?

There were too many questions that could only be answered once he met Willa.

Adriana leaned back in her seat. She thought to herself in delight, "Chuck, once you see Willa and cause a scene, you will know just how powerful I am when I save you!"

Meanwhile, in a luxurious room.

Willa was at a loss. There were more than ten people helping her prepare. Some were helping her with her makeup, doing her hair, and even two of them were dedicated to trimming her nails. She was guaranteed to be the focus of the scene today.

"You're beautiful," The make-up artist smiled at her. She was the professional makeup artist of the Yeager family. However, she had never seen a beauty of Willa's level before.

With just simple makeup, Willa already looked stunning and eye-catching. She was truly born glamorous!

At the same time, Willa was still confused.

"You're really beautiful today. The wedding dress suits you so well. You look amazing..."

"That's right. You're marrying the young master. You'll definitely be happy..."

Other people were praising and smiling at her.
