Huang Yuming turned to look at the rest around the table.

“What about the rest of you?” asked Huang Yuming. “Do the rest of you also feel that Lin Group is not fit to work with you?”

The rest exchanged glances before shaking their heads.

Everything that Huang Yuming said earlier did seem like a joke to them. It was an impossible idea.

How could they possibly compare to the Salos?

How could they possibly promise something so ambitious? This was as good as building castles in the sky.

“Your integrated circuit is not ready yet, right?” asked one of them suddenly. “Since it’s not ready yet, how are you so confident?”

Huang Yuming looked at the person who spoke up and saw that it was someone from the Hess family.

“Duke Kylo, I can answer this question of yours. That’s because one of the developers of this integrated circuit is someone called Lana Salo.”

Everyone’s faces changed upon hearing this.

Everyone knew that Lana was from the Salo family.

NH

They knew that both Lana and Lance were elites in the area of integrated circuits.

They were extremely famous.

The integrated circuits that the Salos developed became one of the best in the world thanks to these two.

But how did Lana end up going to Lin Group?

“The future of the Salos is very clear, and so is the future of Lin Group,” said Huang Yuming. “This situation is like buying stocks and shares. You can choose between the stocks that have been doing well all along, or you could buy something that has the potential to do well.”

“Of course, the good stocks are doing well now, but what about tomorrow? What about next year? The potential ones are not worth much now, but what happens once it suddenly rises?”

He smiled brightly and said, “Everyone here is an expert in business, so I’m sure none of you need me to explain anymore.”

He got up and patted his suit to smoothen it out.

“Alright then, that’s all for today. It’s been a pleasure talking to all of you today. But for the next round of meetings, it will be the other party’s pleasure to talk to me.”

His words were so domineering.

They also sounded rather arrogant.

NH

Lin Group was the one asking for a partnership now, so how could Huang Yuming be so arrogant?

Where did he get the confidence to speak like that?

But Huang Yuming didn't care about their reactions. He was really giving them a chance, so it depended on their foresight and fate to decide who would take this chance.

Lin Group was going to enter the Third World in a matter of time, and they would quickly rise to the top soon!

The various aristocrats were still thinking about how they ought to choose. Since Lana had jumped ship, that meant that there was a problem within the Salo clan.

For the time being, the Salo clan would probably be alright. But what about the future?

Remain standing in the Third World...

It sounded like a joke, but these were also frightening words!

Lin Group was really ambitious!

Duke Kylo from the Hess family frowned slightly and his heart was racing. He had a strong feeling that this Huang Yuming could be telling the truth, even though it did sound completely impossible right now.

The Hesses were at the bottom of the Third World and had barely managed to squeeze itself into the Third World. Climbing up any higher was extremely difficult.

A chance...

This was a chance!

This was a gamble!

“I can’t make the final decision,” Duke Kylo clenched his fists. “But if I don’t make a decision now, then I might miss the chance.”

He clenched his teeth and ran out.

Huang Yuming was about to get into his car when Duke Kylo caught up with him.

“Mr Huang, please wait.”

Huang Yuming turned and saw that it was Duke Kylo. He smiled and asked, “Duke Kylo, what is it?”

He watched as the struggle and hesitation in Duke Kylo’s eyes slowly became more and more determined.

“I would like to work with Lin Group,” said Duke Kylo. “No, the Hesses would like to be a close partner of Lin Group!”

NH

There was a voice inside Duke Kylo that told him that if he missed the chance today, he would regret it for the rest of his life!

The Hess family would regret it forever as well!

“Are you able to represent the Hesses?” asked Huang Yuming.

“Yes, I am able to!” replied Duke Kylo. “I am now representing the Hesses.”

“Sure, I’ve taken note of that. Someone will contact you soon.”

Huang Yuming nodded and got into his car.

“Duke Kylo, this will be the best decision you’ve ever made in your life.”

The car started up and Huang Yuming left.

Duke Kylo stood at the entrance of the hotel and took a deep breath. The raging feeling in his heart refused to go away.

This decision...was definitely the right one, right?

It definitely was!

He pulled his phone out and called his clan leader.

“Mr Hess, I’ve spoken to the folks at Lin Group and I feel that there’s a better chance working with them rather than the Salos.”

The person on the other line was silent for a while before saying, “Do you know what you’re talking about?”

NH

The Salos were one of the most powerful clans in the Third World. They were a longstanding aristocratic family and almost nobody could rival them!

What was that Lin Group even?

They hadn’t even entered the Third World yet, so actually the Hesses were even more powerful than them. Duke Kylo had been kind enough to meet them, and now he even wanted to work with them?

“I’m very sure of this, Mr Hess. This is our chance. Duke Bolan has given up his chance because his clan still has some things to fall back on. But what about us?” Duke Kylo’s voice started to become louder, “If we don’t find other opportunities soon, we’ll be chased out from the Third World and we might never get in again!”

They knew how stiff the competition within the Third World was.

The conditions to work with the Salos were very detrimental to them. It was as good as making money for the Salos, and the little bit of profit they earned was hardly enough for them to survive.

And if the Salos weren’t happy with them, the Salos could terminate the agreement anytime. Yet they couldn’t do anything about these unreasonable conditions.

NH

Who said life would be smooth sailing once one entered the Third World?

One would only be facing even more powerful opponents and even tougher situations in order to fight for resources.

Duke Kylo took a deep breath. "I've already agreed to work with Lin Group. Mr Hess, I will bear full responsibility for everything that happens!"

The person on the other line fell silent and finally said after a long time, "Alright then."

Once he had hung up, Duke Kylo immediately left to terminate his agreement with the Salos and focus everything on Lin Group instead.

He wasn't sure why either, but he felt that he hadn't made the wrong decision.

In no time, Europe soon caught wind of some information.

The story of Lin Group's meteoric rise was suddenly spread all over Europe, especially within the Third World.

The company had started in a small city, then expanded beyond Donghai, beyond the southeast region of the country, then made a name for itself as a forbidden territory, then expanded throughout China, then overseas...

No matter where they went, they never met any opposition!

NH

They turned Korea and Japan upside down!

Their frightening prowess seemed limitless, and their ability to enter foreign markets was unbelievable.

And now, Lin Group was here.

Lin Group had come to Europe and their target was the Third World!

“This Lin Group doesn’t look too simple after all.” Duke Bolan sat on his chair and frowned slightly as he looked at the information he just received.

He had just turned Huang Yuming down earlier because he felt that Lin Group couldn’t be compared to the Salos at all, so there was no need to even think before making a decision.

But after seeing this information, he started to hesitate.

“This Lin Group is really unstoppable and it seems like nobody has been able to prevent them from expanding. That makes them really very formidable indeed.”

“Besides, I’ve also heard that Lance and Lana Salo are now in Donghai too.”
