

Chapter 200

When William said this, everyone on the scene was exceedingly astonished.

Melissa and the others looked at each other, feeling pleased to see how William spoke to Yasmine.

They thought, "This old woman always fails to know her place. Does she think she's a leader here?"

Yasmine definitely deserved to have someone to teach her a lesson!

Janet frowned slightly.

She wondered, "Isn't this dude a coward?"

How did he become so arrogant all of a sudden?

Or was he using the power that came along with his director position to speak down to Yasmine?

She could not wrap her mind around it.

Rebecca felt goosebumps all over her body.

Rebecca thought, "This brat is turning his back against us today!"

First, he slapped her three times. Now, he had the audacity to ask Yasmine to kneel down before Felicity and beg for her forgiveness!

Did he want to offend everyone in the Bai family?

He was insane!

Felicity was so scared out of her wits that her little face turned pale.

William had just demanded Yasmine to kneel down before her!

He was the only one who dared to do this!

Didn't he know this was forbidden?

Yasmine guffawed as if she had heard the funniest joke in the world. She asked, "Haha, you want me to kneel down before my granddaughter? Are you out of your mind? We're talking about the sponsorship rights now. I'm not going to waste my time on you."

Steven chimed in, "B*stard, do you think you have the right to speak here? Get lost!"

But at this moment, Rebecca rose from her seat and inched towards Yasmine and Steven.

If she did not explain to them what had exactly happened as soon as possible, Yasmine and Steven would definitely dig a deeper grave for themselves.

She whispered to them about the sponsorship.

With that, the two of them seemed to be struck by lightning, their eyes full of horror.

They looked at William as if they had seen a ghost!

"D-d-do you mean that William was the one who fought for the sponsorship for our family?"

Yasmine could not help but repeat the question.

Rebecca nodded unwillingly.

After Yasmine confirmed with Rebecca, everyone could tell from her expression that she was totally stupefied.

It was not Darren...

It was William who helped them instead!

No wonder this brat was this fearless!

What the f*ck!

Looking at how things turned out, Yasmine realized how inappropriate her previous statements were. It was clear to others that she was making things difficult for Felicity.

No wonder William wanted her to kneel down before Felicity and beg for forgiveness!

D*mn it!

Yasmine wanted to slap herself!

She whined internally, "Why did I have to be so mean just now?"

Whoever caused the trouble should be responsible for fixing it...

She made all these remarks out of spite!

It was all for the sake of making Felicity give in!

She did not expect that William would use this and turned it against her!

What should she do now?

Yasmine would never kneel down to Felicity.

It was simply too humiliating.

All of a sudden, the air seemed to have frozen.

In the end, Felicity stepped forward and said to William, "William, let's just forget about it."

However, William shook his head. "How can I let go of it? I will not let them have their ways with you and make you shed tears again. I will stand up for you!"

Felicity was flabbergasted. She stared at William, who was exuding the aura of a true, fearless man.

Suddenly, she turned to glimpse at Yasmine and Steven as a thought flashed across her mind.

Since William was going back her up this time...

Then, wouldn't it be a waste if she did not make good use of this opportunity?

Thinking of this, Felicity said to Steven suddenly, "I guess it was you who brought Grandma over and laughed at me, right? Well done. Between you and Grandma, either one of you kneels before me!"

Steven was about to swear when he heard this.

Right then, Steven was hit on the head.

He turned his head and saw that the person who hit him was none other than Yasmine!

The emotions in Yasmine's gaze were unfathomable as she looked at Felicity.

Of course, she knew that Felicity was giving her a way out.

Besides, Steven was indeed the one who insisted on coming here.

"Kneel down!" Yasmine yelled furiously at Steven.

Steven flew into a rage upon hearing that.

F*ck!

"It's me again!"

Why was he the one who always eventually took the blame?

He cursed William and Felicity thousands of times in his heart.

But in the end, he chose to kneel before Felicity and begged for her forgiveness.

The farce was finally over.

Felicity and Rebecca went back to rest. Meanwhile, Yasmine and Steven strode out of the Genuine Care Medical Center and left.

In the blink of an eye, only a few women were left on site.

Just as Laura was about to speak, William voiced casually, "Melissa, arrange for her to be placed in the next ward. I'll go there later."

Melissa held her breath and gave Janet a look.

She motioned for Janet to 'kill' this little b*stard later.

After the others left, Janet asked right away, "I don't want to meddle in your family's affairs. I am here to check on you how the negotiation earlier this morning was."

William sat on the chair and answered, "It's almost done."

"What do you mean by 'almost done'?" Janet asked. She needed a more concrete, measurable answer.

"That means I succeeded in the negotiation. The contract will be signed in three days. You can decide the venue and place, I will draft the contract," William explained casually.

Janet was dumbstruck.

Had this brat actually got it settled?

It turned out that he did have something up his sleeve!

However...

"Why do you have to draft the contract yourself? You should leave it to the professionals to do it," said Janet.

William stood up all of a sudden, his gaze changed abruptly!

It had become as cold as ice!

He took a step towards Janet. Janet was not planning to give in.

However, she could not help but take a step back.

All of a sudden, she was overwhelmed with chagrin when a realization dawned upon her!

She was actually frightened by a coward!

"W-w-what are you doing?!" Janet could not help but exclaim.

William pushed Janet to the wall with one hand!

Then, he leaned onto her and whispered in her ear, "I'm the boss, and you're my subordinate. Who are you to comment on what I should do? Remember your place."

With that, he turned and went to the door before he added, "Before you leave, do get a prescription from Henry to regulate your menstruation cycle."

Janet was discomposed for a long time before she came to her senses.

Not only had she been pushed up against the wall by this good-for-nothing director...

But he also even ashamed her by exposing her medical condition!

Was he hinting at her that she was sick? F*ck!

This son of a b*tch!

She swore she would not give him any more chance to show off!

Soon, he would have a taste of his own medicine! Janet, who was furious, strode out of the Genuine Care Medical Center. However, Melissa stopped her at the door.

Melissa wanted to check with Janet if she had 'killed' the little b*stard.

However, looking at Janet's expression, Melissa suddenly felt a sense of familiarity. She had already known the answer.

There was nothing to ask about. From one glance, it was obvious that William had pissed her off.

Melissa had a feeling that there was going to be a new member of the Avengers.

William came to the ward where Laura was. As soon as he opened the door, he saw Laura sitting on the hospital bed, panting in anger. She seemed like a ticking bomb.

That was right. Laura had been humiliated by William for quite a while now.

However, William did not care about it before he sat down in front of her bed, instructing her as usual, "Put the mask on and take your clothes off. Hurry up, I'm busy."

Laura did not expect William to be so straightforward. Although she had herself mentally prepared for half a day, her effort went in vain in an instant.

She looked at the extremely detestable man in front of her. The more she thought about it, the more she felt that something was amiss. She felt that she had been taken advantage of by him!

In the end, with a wail, she burst into tears in front of him!

Chapter 201

Laura released her overwhelming emotions through her tears.

She never expected that she, who was usually indifferent, would actually burst into tears right in front of William.

However, once she started crying, she could not stop.

The more she cried, the louder she became. Her pea-sized tears cascaded down her cheeks; William, on the other hand, stood there dumbfounded.

This usually cold woman was out of her mind, right?

Why was she crying?

William did not know that Laura was aggrieved.

Ever since the first treatment, this b*stard had never regarded her as a human being.

She was a celebrity. Wherever she went, there would always be fans around.

But why did she always been instructed by this little b*stard?

She was treated in a way worse than an animal!

What was so awesome about him?!

Who gave him the rights to constantly look down on her?!

She had swallowed her pride and showed up herself here. Yet, he still acted so arrogantly in front of her!

Busy! Busy! Busy!

Yeah, right, he was the busiest person in the world!

It felt as if she was a little b*tch who came from thousands of miles away for him.

However, her presence irked him. He told her that she should speed up and not waste his time as he had other plans.

Laura felt her dignity had shattered into pieces.

She questioned him silently, "Am I such a shameless woman in your eyes?"

She cried for five minutes and could not stop.

William was left helpless.

He would never understand a woman's mind in this lifetime.

Even he had yet to figure Felicity out.

Now there was such a charming woman crying in front of him as if someone had snatched all her belongings away, he was equally distressed too.

"Hey you, stop crying please." William softened his tone.

Laura yelped even more loudly when she heard that this inhumane brat was trying to comfort her.

It was as if she had been humiliated once again by him.

William was wordless.

She was crying harder and harder, wasn't she?

The atmosphere became awkward.

Ten minutes later, Laura stopped crying and started sobbing.

"Sure, you don't want me to treat you, do you? How can I treat you with you being like this?" William asked.

Laura wiped her tears away. Her exquisite makeup was ruined from all the crying.

"Hmph! Boohoo... you've gone too far..." Laura reached out and hit William.

Well, the ice queen had now turned to a whiny little girl.

Finally, when she stopped crying, William started treating her with acupuncture.

This round, time passed very quickly.

Laura no longer felt ashamed.

William withdrew the needles while Laura put her clothes on.

"You can go now," William said.

Laura, who had been holding back her tears, burst into tears again on the spot.

He was going to kick her out right after he saw her naked!

William was about to break into a cold sweat.

What was this woman doing?

Wasn't she thirty years old this year?

But a three-year-old would have higher IQ and EQ than her.

William could not help but ask, "Why don't we stay for a little while more?"

Laura glared at William and responded, "Hmph!"

She retouched her makeup and walked outside.

William could not bear to see her in such a pity state. Hence, he reminded her, "Forget it, I'll give you a piece of advice. Pay attention to the people around you."

However, Laura did not take this advice to heart at all.

People around her?

The worst person around her was but William!

She strode outside.

But she was overwhelmed with shame.

In her lifetime, in the last thirty years...

It was her first time crying like this in front of a man.

It was so embarrassing!

"This b*stard, just you wait and see!"

Meanwhile, William had been busy in his work for another few hours before the nightfall came. He packed up his stuff and went home.

The lights in the room had already turned out.

William tiptoed into the room and laid down on the bed on the ground.

At this time, he heard a soft voice from the bed, asking, "William, don't you have anything to explain to me?"

William was taken aback. He pondered for a moment and replied, "I have helped Janet in the past. That's why she gave me the sponsorship rights."

However, Felicity responded, "I don't care about the sponsorship."

What she cared about was all these coquettish b*tches around him.

All of them were superb beauties. Felicity doubted if William could control himself.

Though, William did not think about this. He stated, "I have nothing else to say then. It's late now. Let's go to sleep. Good night."

Felicity sighed silently in bed.

Although she believed in William, she still felt a little uncomfortable.

Three days had passed in the blink of an eye.

This day was the day for Lunanica Media and Henderson Media to sign an agreement to co-produce a major film.

The time was set in the evening.

William only brought Janet and Martin along.

In a private room of the hotel, William saw that Frank was ready to entertain them.

"Director Lu," Frank greeted. When he saw William, he went up to him.

William nodded slightly to him and said, "Let's get started."

When Frank heard this, his heart trembled slightly. He was definitely the most anxious person in the scene.

It was because so far, he did not know what the contract looked like.

He did not even know what William would ask for. It certainly would not be the way it was before. Otherwise, William would not redraft the contract himself.

If William took a bite on him, he would have to accept it silently.

Frank asked William immediately, "Okay. Where is the contract?"

William took out two documents from his bag and put them on a red table.

Janet and others' eyes changed slightly as the contracts were pulled out.

They have never seen the content of the contracts, too.

Everyone present was all kept in the dark, except William.

This feeling made Janet feel resentful.

Obviously, the contract should be carefully scrutinized.

A mistake and loophole could cause extremely dire consequences.

This brat behaved like a child in such an important event.

When it was time to be cautious, he made irrational decisions.

He was definitely going to make a big mess.

Janet could not help but shook her head.

On the side, Frank picked up the contract with trembling hands, ready to be exploited.

However, the more he looked at it, the stranger his expression became.

He rubbed his eyes and thought that he had seen it wrong.

But in the end, he was completely flabbergasted. Cold sweat was running down his fat face.

His hand shivered harder as he looked at William in disbelief. "Director Lu, you..." he stammered.

William's expression remained steady as he responded, "Sign it."

Martin and Janet saw the look on Frank's face.

They thought, "That's not right!"

There must be something wrong with the contract!

Janet shouted, "Wait!"

She picked up the contract quickly and took a serious look.

She froze after one glance!

She looked at William in astonishment. She questioned, "Director Lu, what is this about?"

In the contract, Lunanica Media remained to have the right to determine one of the main actors and also one-third of the sponsorship.

The thing that changed was—

Lunanica Media would add 50 million yuan, which made up to a total of 100 million yuan to buy out all the copyrights of the film, including the process of shooting and post-production!

It was tantamount to letting Lunanica Media spend all the necessary money to take care of every single sh*t in this movie production. It was undeniably an absurd move!

telegram-vamp20w0111

Chapter 202

Originally, both parties agreed to share the copyrights of the movie.

However, given the fact that Henderson Media would be responsible for the script and post-production, they could own two-thirds of the recruitment rights of the sponsorship.

Now, William had actually spent an extra 50 million yuan to buy the copyright and take all the work!

Why was he so confident that this movie would become a hit?

This was so ridiculous!

There were many other medical-based films and dramas. There was no way it would become a hit!

This was a fact that both of them had acquiesced.

William's act was tantamount to give Henderson Media an exorbitantly-priced gift!

Janet was trembling with anger!

She should have known that letting this brat draft the contract would only cause trouble!

Sure enough!

He was so ignorant that he had drafted a contract that would make them fork out money and do all the work!

What was so awesome with having the copyright of this movie? Whoever loved it should just take it.

How can he be a director of a company when he could not even see this trick clearly?

Maybe he was thinking too highly of himself!

"No! You can't sign it!" shouted Janet. She was not in the mood to care about William and Frank.

Right then, she saw the corner of William's mouth quirked up into a smirk all of a sudden.

His expression was as cold as ice.

She could not help but think of what William said to her three days ago.

At this moment, fury roared through her mind as she let out a silent anguished cry.

Mr. Wang, what did you see in this guy?

He had acted so irrationally. On top of that, he was so arrogant.

He was just a mediocre gangster!

If this contract went through, the shareholders of the company would definitely start a riot!

Or even worse, Lunanica Media would end up becoming the laughing stock of the industry and be annihilated by the other competitors!

Janet shouted out to stop Frank from signing the contract as she planned to salvage the company.

However, she was rattled to see William simper at her attempt to save the company.

Very well!

If William was going to act recklessly...

Sure, go ahead!

If he was going to pull the company down, she would not hesitate to taint his name too!

She gave William a cold look and sashayed away.

Martin, who was on the side, was reading the contract.

His first impression of this contract was that it was completely idiotic.

William was throwing money away for no good reason.

He was letting Henderson Media make 50 million yuan out of thin air.

D*mn it!

Martin was well aware that Frank had been holding William in high regard. Could they possibly have come to a shady agreement in private?

Martin was more convinced of his speculation now that he gave it some thought!

So this was how it was! Hahaha!

Alright then! William had betrayed the company and had joined arms with Henderson Media!

He should see how William was going to fend for himself this time!

Martin's eyes were twinkling with mockery.

Frank looked at William tremblingly and asked in a low voice, "Director Lu, why do you change the contract?"

William responded blandly, "Just sign it."

Seeing William's stubbornness, Frank was awash with distress.

Didn't William know anything about how this industry worked?

If the film ended up a flop, would William take his anger out on him again since he was the one who signed the contract?

Frank braced himself to sign it. His hands were shaking as he picked up the pen.

D*mn it!

"Sign it, Frank!" roared Frank silently. He would take care of William later.

After they signed the contract, Frank left the place immediately.

Meanwhile, Janet returned to the office and reported this matter to Harper immediately, positively infuriated.

She thought Harper would be furious and reproached William for ruining his company.

However, after Harper heard her report, he actually chortled.

This made Janet even more depressed. "Mr. Wang, he's going to bring the company down. How can you still be laughing?"

Harper was drinking tea as William's face appeared in his mind.

Harper wondered, "What are you scheming again, Mr. William..."

He should just wait and see.

Harper had never doubted William again after the incident about the Heption Herbs last time.

He had been in the business for too many years; yet, he could never fathom what William was thinking.

William's unpredictable move made Harper fired up; he could not wait to see what would be coming after.

"Mr. Wang! Please say something!" Janet squeaked furiously on the phone.

"I won't intervene in this matter. I'll leave it to you." Harper hung up thereafter.

Janet was under Harper. However, looking at how things turned out, it seemed that William wanted to poach her from him.

Haha!

Janet should consider this as such an honor. This must be a test set up by William for Janet. Hopefully, Janet could pass with flying colours.

Meanwhile, Janet chucked the pen holder in her office away, frustrated. All its contents were thrown scattered across the room.

She whined inwardly, "Mr. Wang, I'm afraid you're really getting old and senile!"

At this moment, William walked out of the hotel after signing the contract and made a call. "Are you busy? I want to go to your place and thank you."

The call was brief and lasted only for ten seconds. Then, he received an address.

William hailed a taxi and left towards the address.

After William disappeared, Ben, who was hiding in a corner of the hotel, propped his head out and made a phone call. "Mr. Liu, I finally caught that guy. He is alone now. Now what? Should I take action?"

Surprisingly, this call was made to Darren.

Darren had been suppressing his anger for the past few days, planning to teach William a lesson. He finally caught William alone.

He got up from the bed. He had not fully recovered, but he ordered fiercely, "Come on, bring the men you contacted last time and get him!"

Don't wait for me. I'll be there soon!"

Darren was so furious that he could not wait to see William get killed.

He wanted to see William struggling and begging for his mercy once he reached there.

Ben nodded and drove his car immediately to follow William.

Ten minutes later, William went into Zoe's Tea House in a secret alley in Qena City.

Ben called Darren to report the situation. When Darren heard it, he guffawed, "Hahaha, I didn't expect this! Even God is helping me! We can seize hold of him more easily now that he's in an alley all alone! Are your men ready?"

Ben replied, "They should arrive within eight minutes."

"Okay. Go in together and kill that b*stard. I guess it will take another ten minutes for me to arrive," Darren stated. He felt relieved after hanging up the phone.

He was going to take his revenge!

On this very day!

Meanwhile, Ben was outside guarding the tea house and began to urge the men to come.

Darren gave him more than 500,000 yuan this time, which was enough for these men to have a good time for days.

In the meantime, William was in a private room of the tea house and finally met the person he was waiting for.

The man was drinking tea with his eyebrows furrowed.

The fragrance of the tea wafted across the room.

Everyone in the room seemed to be anxious.

William pushed the door open and hung his coat on the hanger at the door casually before greeting him.

"Brother Tigger, you seem to be in a bad mood."
