

My Dreamy Old Husband

Chapter 121

The military parade of the military training in the university generally consisted of some fixed commands, for instance, half step forward march, forward march, attention, at ease, left turn, right turn, rest, squat and rise, salute, and dismissed.

Each company used a few minutes to present what they had learned over the past month. As there were more than one hundred companies in total, half a day had passed after reviewing all of them one by one, including their visual signal performances and military aerobics performances.

In the afternoon, the Best Individual, Best Company, Best Performance, Most Inspirational Company, Best Discipline, Best Instructor, and many more awards would finally be awarded to the deserving individuals and teams.

The students seem enthusiastic and excited while watching the performances, but Michael may find this incredibly boring. Why did he insist on coming? Is he here to watch my performance? When the thought popped into her mind, she immediately brushed it off.

He must be here to watch Stanley's performance and just catch mine incidentally. Nevertheless, I was still bought by him with 10 million, and my name is now registered in the household registry together with his and Nathan's name, so he will still cast me a few glances when I'm performing. Therefore, I need to make sure that I perform well.

Soon, Company 1 appeared while shouting their slogan in unison under the lead of their instructor. The host began to use her sweet voice to introduce Company 1 to everyone. "The first company that we have here is Company 1, which consists of 33 people in total. This company comprises 33 students who are majoring in dancing from the Dance Academy. Their slogan is...”

The appearance of Company 1 attracted the gaze of Joel and the two other dazzling idols. As most of the members of Company 1 were girls, the presence of the three men made them feel excited and made their hearts flutter.

Out of anxiousness, one of the girls accidentally made a wrong turn when they were supposed to turn to the left, causing their company to be instantly booed by the audience. There was also a girl who felt so excited that she passed out on the spot.

The instructor of Company 1 was rendered speechless upon seeing them making mistakes in front of their idols despite their well performance during their usual training. As he had no intention to strive for the Best Instructor award, he instructed the company in a cursory manner and ran off.

After the girls of Company 1 left the area where the military parade was held, they instantly cried their eyes out. The tragic failure of Company 1 caused the following companies to feel the pressure.

After all, they were stared at by their idols, so it would only be natural for them to feel nervous. Hence, the members of the following companies kept making mistakes due to the intense anxiousness.

Upon seeing that, Sophia was at a loss for words. Aren't they just three men? Why are they so worked up over that?

They were seated on the main stage and were being stared at by thousands of people below the stage. Therefore, as the honored guest of the military parade, though Ethan felt extremely bored, he couldn't play with his phone in front of the crowd; he could only play with Nathan.

Halfway through the military parade, everyone discovered that Nathan was the real winner in life! He dozed off in Taylor's arms for a moment, and then he played with a frog plushie in Ethan's arms. He then hopped into Joel's arms to play with the pen that Joel used to give scores to the companies.

Nathan truly chose the right identity to reincarnate into. Everyone wished that they could replace him instead. However, Nathan seemed to be clueless about everyone's envy and jealousy; he even pulled a long face. If it weren't for Mommy, I wouldn't have come!

Sophia knew that the military parade performance of the Superb Company was set to be the final performance. There was still some time before their turn, so they weren't as nervous as the other companies. Besides, she was not anxious at all as her results were good enough, so she wasn't worried that this military parade would affect her overall results.

The Best Individual award during the military training? Have a meal with the three gorgeous men—General, Taylor Murray and Ethan Winston? One of them is the General with a powerful aura, and the other is my psycho husband, while the last one is the buddy of my psycho husband. If the four of us were to have a meal together... I would rather die.

Though she was spacing out, she kept looking in Michael's direction. She turned away after a few glances for fear that he would notice that she was peeking at him. However, her inner voice was yelling, I want to get first place! I want to have a meal with my idol!

Tay Tay can only have a meal with me! When the thought of her husband having a meal with other men or women crossed her mind, she felt displeased. No, I won't even allow anyone to have a meal with him, men or women.

However, there was nothing more she could do as she only had an insignificant place among his harem. She was lost in her reverie until she heard the host making an announcement in a sweet voice—"Let's have Company 49 next!"

Company 49! As she had been part of this company for more than half a month, she was rather concerned about them, so she immediately stuck out her head to check them out.

The host continued to introduce them. “As the star company of our military training this round, Company 49 has had excellent results. Their loud and clear slogan and sturdy strides reveal their enthusiasm and ambitious spirits! ‘Unity and cooperation’ is the magic weapon of Company 49. Do your best, Company 49!”

When Company 49 showed up, their vibes were totally different from other companies—their slogans were loud and clear, and their formation, which used to be their weakness, seemed particularly outstanding today.

Nobody made any mistake, and their military parade was performed flawlessly throughout their performance. When Company 49 completed their parade, everyone noticed a grin on Commander Ford’s face.

The performance of Company 49 was beyond outstanding today! Sophia was glad for them as well! After the performance of Company 49, no other company managed to grab Sophia’s attention.

Feeling a little bored, she sat upright, just like the other students, but from time to time, her eyes glanced toward Michael. She could hear a voice in her head shouting, Tay Tay, look at me! Look at me! Look at me now!

However, Michael seemed to have no idea where Sophia was sitting. Without even casting a glance at her, his gaze was focused on the site where the parade was held, while he occasionally discussed with Joel about something.

There was a professional team awarding marks to each performance. When each company left the site, their marks would be recorded into the military training credit system. After combining the whole team’s usual performance and individual performance, each team could immediately get the overall score for their team.

Without realizing, it was already noon. It was now November, and the weather wasn't hot; it was in fact a little windy and cooling. However, everyone on the site was burning with so much passion that they couldn't feel the cold.

Suddenly, Stanley gently kicked at Sophia, who was in a daze. "Sophia, why are you spacing out? It's time to leave now to show off what we have!"

Superb Company emerged in full force. The military training this round apparently had 139 companies. After the 139 companies completed their performances, everyone thought that the military parade had ended and planned to come back after lunch for the cultural performance by all companies.

However, to their surprise, the host wore an enigmatic smile and announced, "It seems like everyone is prepared to leave. Please hold your horses. As always, we have saved the best for last. Next, let's welcome our last company to perform their military parade. This is no ordinary company, so everyone, prepare to scream..."

The students seemed to have guessed which was the last company as they stared wide-eyed at the entrance of the site. The resounding voice of the host was then heard. "Next, let's welcome our strongest company on earth—Superb Company!"
