

My Dreamy Old Husband

Chapter 571

Intentionally, Michael teased, “Yeah. I’ll go extend mine to 20 centimeters next month. Are you scared?”

Instantly, Sophia’s complexion went pale. A 20 centimeter-long penis!

How strong would he be?

She didn’t think she would be able to fit him in!

Watching Sophia who was dumbfounded, Michael arched his brows and gave her a wink.

Sophia suddenly realized that she had been teased; covering her face, she ran away.

In the meantime, Nathan, who was watching, was rendered speechless.

They’re setting a bad example for children again.

After Sophia ran away out of shyness, Michael continued with his work at hand. He was suddenly very interested in the gossip she had told him earlier.

Sophia told him that Quinton was pretty handsome back then, but why did he go for plastic surgery?

Besides, he was highly educated and was the second son of the Clark Family—one of the most influential families in Bayside City. There was absolutely no need for the surgery.

However, one wouldn't know what the others were thinking. Perhaps he was someone who really cared about his appearance!

Sophia did not come back after a long while; instead, it was Abel, the one who had been out for some days, that had returned.

This time, he suffered a slight injury, but he brought major news back for Michael.

“Thanks to Nicholas for taking that video of Phantom Wolf. Although it caught Phantom Wolf on camera, he was wearing a face mask, so I couldn't recognize his face. But his subordinate was in the video.”

Filled with excitement, Abel played the video clip that he had copied out from Nicholas' system. Other than Phantom Wolf, there was one of his subordinates that was helping him keep a lookout.

When Nicholas later made its move, Sophia took the opportunity to escape. That subordinate glanced over, and that was why Nicholas managed to catch his face on camera.

Due to Nicholas' high-definition camera quality, Abel was able to recognize Phantom Wolf's subordinate's facial features. He found this man and observed him for a few days. Following him, Abel was led straight into the Phantom Wolf's branch and had wiped them out in one fell swoop.

“There were eighteen people in total. All of them were the elites of the Phantom Wolf. I kept two of them alive and the rest are here now.”

Glancing at Abel who was ordering someone to move the sixteen mutilated corpses into his basement, Michael found all of them were still warm. Blood was still dripping, painting the floor scarlet.

He looked at Abel, who was happy with the results, but he said nothing.

Abel had collected a lot of corpses in there. Some of them were not easy to destroy, and some were worthy for research purposes, so he kept them in the freezer.

For example, the corpse he dug from Cooper's grave and also Kayla's body.

He wondered if Sophia could still run around happily if she knew that there were hundreds of dead bodies hidden in her basement.

This time, they had received sixteen more bodies. Although Phantom Wolf's body wasn't one of them, Abel was still very satisfied.

After all, this could be considered progress!

Even the corpses of Phantom Wolf's subordinates were valuable for research purposes.

While the corpses were still warm, Abel dissected them. However, the other two that were still alive and had their mouths gagged were imprisoned in the next room, so they could watch through the transparent bulletproof glass as he dissected their friends.

It was torture!

Knowing that he wouldn't be able to get something out from them, Abel didn't bother to interrogate them. He decided to trap them just so that he could observe them whenever he wanted.

Soon, Abel made a major discovery. Instantly, he called Michael down. Even Sophia was excited to come too.

In the past, Michael was reluctant to expose her to bloody things like that. He didn't want her to visit the basement, but he couldn't bear to reject her.

After notifying Abel to make the workspace cozier, Michael brought Sophia downstairs. He didn't want Sophia to see the scene where dozens of corpses were piled up all over the place.

However, when they were down in the basement, the corpses were still piled up together. All Abel had done to make the ambiance warmer was to put a flower next to the dead bodies.

Inside his fully transparent dissection room, he was busy dissecting the bodies; there were internal organs all over the workspace.

Abel's studio was huge. It was connected to tunnels in all directions; they were made as escape tunnels, not by Michael but the Emperor of the ancient Imperial Palace. They were hidden from people's sight, and Michael had borrowed a few of them.

Michael originally thought that Sophia would be frightened. However, it seemed like Sophia was not affected at all. With a calm expression, she walked over and started talking to Abel.

Abel's voice rose from the inside of the bulletproof glasses. "Thirty years ago, Theo led soldiers to destroy the century-old family of drug traffickers hidden in the Southwest border. I found some top-secret information when I browsed through some files when I was in the army. The drug traffickers were studying a special super stimulant that could maximize the human body's performance with minimal side effects."

Super stimulant?

Sophia was shocked when she heard that.

She recollected the time when Kayla was under the influence of a stimulant. She was extremely strong—as if she was a killing machine that would never go tired. She was frantic, aggressive, and cruel. It was a memory Sophia didn't want to look back to in her lifetime!

Abel went on, “Unfortunately, due to the limited technology in the past, their super stimulant wasn't completed. The studio was blown up by Theo and all of the information and equipment was destroyed. This time, I discovered that Phantom Wolf's subordinates were powerful and different from regular people. There was a strange type of stimulant found in their blood and it was transforming their bodies constantly. The preliminary test showed that this stimulant is the same series from the batch thirty years ago. However, what's different is that the batch used by the Phantom Wolf is way more advanced than the previous batch. And, it's almost perfect.”

When Michael and Sophia heard him, their complexions worsened.

In other words, Abel was saying that Phantom Wolf had obtained the information about the stimulant that was still in development by the drug traffickers thirty years ago at the Southwest border, and they had been studying and improving it.

These modified super stimulants could transform the human body without any side effects?

Remembering that day when she had a brief scuffle with Phantom Wolf, Sophia was unable to resist him at all. He was like a powerful machine with limitless strength. All of her resistance was futile...

There was also another time when she fought Phantom Wolf's subordinate, Quill, and he wasn't even afraid of electric shocks!

No wonder they had been out there for years and no one could find them. Many countries had worked together to stop them, but they always failed. And she didn't expect it was because they had been transformed by the super stimulant!

Aren't they similar to super villains one usually saw in movies?

Unfortunately, there were no superheroes in reality.

The more Sophia was exposed to those things, the more she could feel the darkness of reality. All of a sudden, she broke out into a cold sweat.

If Phantom Wolf were to study the stimulant thoroughly, wouldn't it be...

Completing his job, Abel removed his gloves, face mask, and his white lab coat. He walked out of the room after disinfecting himself.

"Come on. I have something important to show you."

He found the information and cast it on the floating display.

"In order to find out the relationship between Phantom Wolf and the drug traffickers at the Southwest border, I went to investigate at the old site in Southwest last year. And, I found something you might not want to know."

When he said that, he looked toward Michael.
