

Mistaking the CEO for a Gigolo

Chapter 266

Evan didn't understand what her gaze meant. He furrowed his brows and looked at her in puzzlement. "You have nothing to say? Because I've exposed you?"

"Well, I have nothing to say to you, but you owe me money."

Evan didn't get what she meant.

Nicole put her hands out and demanded angrily, "Pay me for my translation service!"

Oh? So she's asking me to pay her back.

It's only a few thousand. Is she that desperate?

Why did she insist on moving out, then? She needs money to rent a house!

"You can afford rent, right? The money is nothing to you."

"Even if I can afford to buy an airplane, you need to pay me the money! I earned it myself, so you must pay me," Nicole demanded.

She knew it would be hard to get the money from him after she had moved out.

Besides, she didn't want to return and see him with Sylphiette.

She decided it was time to go on their separate ways.

Evan gazed at her wordlessly for a long time before commenting, "You look like a shrew when you're asking for money."

"You look like a scum when you refuse to give me money."

Evan's cold eyes narrowed into a faint smirk. He turned and left without saying a word.

So he's refusing to give it to me?

In a huff, Nicole hurried forward and stopped him from leaving.

"Give me my money! Mr. Seet, are you this shameless!"

"I will! Can't you wait?"

With that, he continued on his way.

Nicole looked at his back and mused, Is he going to bring me my money?

Fine, I'll wait for him.

Nicole waited there foolishly for over half an hour before she realized Evan wasn't going to come back.

She immediately rushed to his room, but he had already driven to his company.

Has he left? That scum!

Turns out he really wants me to wait for real! Damn, I've wasted half an hour!

The more she thought about it, the more upset she was. Nicole nagged all the way back to the rear house and told the girls about moving out.

Nina nodded calmly at the news. She knew Evan didn't like her, and she hated Sylphiette, too. She'd rather move out than live unhappily here.

Maya, however, was reluctant to leave. She pouted and lowered her head silently.

She recalled how Evan bought her yummy food and made a wreath for her. If I leave, I can't be with Daddy anymore. I don't want to leave!

Nicole knew how Maya felt, so she consoled the little girl. "If you want to see your Daddy, Uncle Davin can bring you to him."

Maya turned to Davin, who nodded at her. But he also thought it was a pity for her to leave.

"Nicole, will you really leave him?"

Will I leave him?

Do I even have a choice?

All good things come to an end. Evan and I are not meant to be. We might be friends when we were young, but now that he has someone he likes, I shouldn't force it.

"I'm no longer your sister-in-law."

Davin sighed in exasperation, "Is there anything I can do to help you?"

"Please take care of your two nephews. Thank you!"

"Don't worry, I will. My parents will be excited to get to stay with their grandchildren."

“I’ll visit them soon.”

As long as they took good care of Juan and Kyle, she would also treat them well.

Mrs. Seet has always been kind to me. I should visit them soon.

“Okay, you can complain about my brother. I believe my mother will help you.”

Complain?

At his words, Nicole suddenly recalled how she had to wait over half an hour just now.

With a faint smile, she inquired, “Does your family have a rule of refusing to pay your debts?”

After a brief thought, Davin gave his answer.

Chapter 267

“No. We managed to gain our reputation today because we are honest. Of course we won’t refuse to pay our debts.”

“Then why did your brother refuse to pay me back the few thousand he owed me?”

“Who? Nicole, Evan isn’t someone like that. He never owes money.”

“Oh, really?” Nicole snorted.

Damn it, he's making me mad. Forget it. It's not something that I need to complain to his parents, she thought.

However, Davin's curiosity was piqued. He insisted on finding out what it was, hence Nicole told him all about it.

She concluded angrily, “Forget about the money. I won't be working for him anymore. That's it.”

Davin coughed, seemingly disagreeing with her decision. It isn't worth it to cut off ties with Evan because of a few thousand? Seriously, what's wrong with Evan?

After a brief thought, Davin's eyes lit up. He suddenly realized his brother must've done that, so there would still be something between them.

He smirked evilly. If that's the case, I'll help Evan realize his true feelings.

After leaving Nicole's room, Davin brought Kyle and Juan back to Seet Residence.

When Jonathan and Sophia saw their grandsons, they welcomed them with delight.

The boys recalled how Nicole reminded them to please behave at their grandparents'. They looked at each other before stepping forward and giving their grandparents a bow.

“Hello, Grandpa, Grandma.” Their adorable voices rang out clearly.

Sophia was elated at how obedient they were. Her gaze sparkled as she looked at her dear grandsons like they were valuable treasures.

“Come to Grandpa. I’ll buy the best toys for you!”

“Come to Grandma. I’ll buy you pretty clothes and yummy snacks. I can buy everything you want!”

Juan giggled and ran into Jonathan’s arms. He blinked adorably before telling his Grandpa, “Grandpa, I don’t need toys. All I want is for you to be happy.”

“Okay, okay. I’ll be happy as long as you’re happy.”

Jonathan reached out to pinch his chubby cheeks. He was utterly delighted over how smart and adorable his oldest grandson was.

Davin watched the entire scene unfold and thought, Juan is good at buttering up. Who did he get it from? Evan isn’t someone like that.

Kyle went to Sophia and requested coolly, “Grandma, I want to eat cheesecake.”

“My dear, of course. I’ll even give you the stars if you want.”

Kyle had a faint smile on his lips. He rarely smiled at them, so Sophia was delighted.

“This little boy is exactly like Evan.” Davin sighed before he let out a deliberate cough. “Dad, Mom, good news. From now on, they’ll be staying with you.”

At his announcement, Jonathan and Sophia were shocked.

“Stay with us? Why?”

Before Davin explained it to them, he told the servants to bring the boys out.

He waited until they left before he explained everything to his parents.

“Because, well. Evan wouldn’t let them stay with their mother, but their mother thought you’ll take care of them better.”

“Isn’t Nicole staying with Evan at Rose Garden? They are both with the kids. What’s going on?” Sophia was confused.

Davin let out a long sigh and explained everything about the incident.

Anyway, it was all Sylphiette’s fault for wanting to marry his brother!

Sophia flew into a rage upon hearing his explanation. She thought Evan and Nicole would get to know each other better in Rose Garden. Instead, a vixen came out of nowhere and ruined her wish!

Chapter 268

“Why didn’t anyone tell me about it?”

Sophia glared at Davin angrily, blaming him for telling her this late.

Sighing, Davin said, “I only found out a few days ago. She must’ve bewitched Evan!”

“You’re right. She doesn’t seem like a pushover. By the way, Nicole isn’t weak either. She can handle your brother. How did that vixen manage to chase her out?”

“Mom, Nicole is too busy with her clinic to fight with that vixen. Besides, Evan is on the vixen’s side. She could defeat Sylphiette, not Evan.”

Jonathan’s face fell. “You mean it was your brother’s fault? That fool!”

“Well, I dare not say it’s his fault. It was the vixen who seduced him,” Davin muttered before looking up at his mother. He couldn’t wait to see Sophia going against that vixen.

“Oh, Mom. Evan gave Nicole a bad time...”

He then told them about how Nicole had translated some documents for Evan yet the latter refused to pay her for her service.

Sophia sighed silently at his words. “That vixen must’ve bewitched your brother. But according to what you’ve just said, he must still be in love with Nicole.”

Suddenly, Davin snapped his fingers. “Mom, you’re smart! I have the same thought, too. Are you going to do something about this?”

“Yes! Just wait and see!”

Okay!

Mom’s taking action. Let’s see how will Sylphiette and Evan react!

There were plenty of rooms at the clinic, so she thought it would be perfect to stay here as she needn’t pay rent. She could also work anytime she wanted.

Maya and Nina were obedient enough to not complain about the place. They even helped her to tidy up the area.

Rocky, who was treating a patient, saw Nicole moving boxes into the clinic. He came to her and asked curiously, "What is this?"

"Rocky, we're going to stay here."

Nina liked Rocky a lot, so before her Mommy could reply, she ran to him and told him she'll be staying here.

Rocky looked at Nicole in disbelief. He hurriedly asked, "Why?"

Nicole tried to brush it off, saying it was because of work, but Rocky refused to believe her.

"The place you've been staying in was so much better than this clinic. Besides, we have so many patients every day. How can the kids live here?"

Nina stared at Rocky while mumbling, "We were chased out."

"Nina!"

Obviously, Nicole wanted to keep it a secret lest she troubled anyone.

Much to her surprise, Rocky fell silent. He then told her, "The clinic is profiting, and our future is looking good. I have a spare house which you can stay in. Think of it as a thank you gift for giving me this job."

"You have a house? You've just returned to the country. Why would you have a house?"

Rocky hesitated before replying with a smile, "I bought it before I left. It has been empty for the past few years. Since it's near to our clinic, you can move into it."

Nicole lowered her gaze to look at her kids before glancing at the patients waiting in line. Rocky's right. I'm not picky, but the girls are too young to stay here.

“Thank you, then.”

“No worries. Let me rearrange my appointments. I’ll give you a ride there later.”

Rocky dealt with his matters efficiently before sending Nicole and the girls to his house.

On the way there, he suddenly asked, “Do you want it to be near the clinic? Or do you want it to be big?”

Nicole was puzzled. “How many empty houses do you have?” I can even choose?

Chapter 269

Rocky grinned and claimed it was just a random question he had in mind.

“We don’t need the place to be too big. We prefer somewhere near mommy’s workplace.”

“Okay.”

Nicole felt like things weren’t as simple as Rocky claimed. He rarely spoke about his family when the two of them studied overseas together.

As such, Nicole actually didn’t know much about his past.

The car drove to Summervale.

Rocky turned and saw that Nicole was flabbergasted. He spoke softly, "We're here."

Summervale was an upscale location, and anyone who could afford a place there had to be pretty rich.

Nicole didn't expect the place to be so luxurious, so she turned to Rocky uneasily.

"This place must be expensive, and you could earn a lot if you rent it out. You'd endure a huge loss if you let us live here for free. How about I pay you rent?"

"I've said that you can stay here, and I mean it. Also, friends don't talk to each other about rent. Let's go check it out and see if you like it."

Nicole suddenly thought that she was pretty dumb. People who can afford to buy a house over here are not going to sweat about rent.

Rocky must be rich. That'd explain why he didn't care about the salary offered by the clinic.

Nina loved the place, and she walked ahead happily with Rocky.

Nicole thought about how she didn't have anywhere else to go, so she tilted her eyes down. She held Maya's chubby hand before following along.

"You can decorate however you like or renovate it if the place doesn't suit your style."

The color theme of the house was grey with white, which highlighted the owner's unique taste.

The living room was spacious, and there were three bedrooms, so it was more than enough for Nicole and her daughters.

Nicole turned to Rocky. For some reason, she felt like he wasn't as simple as he seemed.

"You are actually letting us stay in a place this great..."

"I'm just glad you like it. You don't need to feel like you owe me anything, okay?" said Rocky, who then left to buy her some daily necessities.

Nicole felt a little bad about everything.

Rocky placed the essentials aside and handed her the key before suggesting, "There's an art class near the place, and the kids can have lessons there during the weekends."

"I see. Thank you."

"You stay and unpack. I'll go to the clinic and deal with everything there, so you don't need to worry about it."

"Thank you," said Nicole again. She honestly didn't know what else to say.

Rocky was helping her out when she was at the lowest, and that made her feel uncertain and warm at the same time.

After Rocky left, Nina and Maya scanned every room. They found the place to be weird and weren't sure which room to choose.

Nicole then suggested that they choose a room then repaint it pink to make it a princess-themed room. They would love it if it's all pink and pretty.

"That's a great idea, mommy."

"When will Kyle and Juan join us here, mommy?"

Nicole's heart gripped when she thought about her sons. I wonder how my boys are right now...

Nicole got up and fished out her phone to call the boys.

Juan picked up the call immediately when he saw that it was from his mommy.

The first thing he did was brag about how good he and Kyle had been, and how much their grandparents adored them. After that, he asked, "Uncle Davin said that you are no longer living in the Rose Garden. Do you have a place to stay?"

"Yeah, we do. Mommy, Nina and Maya have moved to Summervale, and the environment here is great. The house is pretty good, too. I'll go take you boys over during the weekend."

"Okay, mommy. We will be good boys so that we can get back to you as soon as possible."

"That's my boy. Mommy trusts you both."

I will also work hard and fight to bring you both home.

Nina and Maya later took the phone over and chatted with their siblings for a while before hanging up.

Juan, the mischievous chubby thing, turned to Kyle and said, "I sense danger."

"What?" asked Kyle coolly.

Juan looked around before saying mysteriously, "Do you remember the time when we had a meal with Uncle Rocky? Remember how I told you that Nina wants Uncle Rocky to be our stepdad?"

Chapter 270

Kyle thought about it before nodding with a straight face on.

“Mommy has moved into Uncle Rocky’s house, and Nina mentioned how much she loved the place. I bet she’s going to help Uncle Rocky court mommy.”

“Nina is a traitor!”

Kyle’s distant little face shone with a hint of anger. What about daddy? What is he going to do if mommy really ends up with Uncle Rocky? Our dreams of getting the family back together will also go up in smokes if that happens!

“This isn’t entirely Nina’s fault. She and daddy are like enemies, so it’d be strange if she wants to help him.”

“We must help daddy if she won’t. Only daddy will love and care for us. Stepdads will only torture us,” informed Kyle, who had a serious face on when he turned to Juan.

Torture...

Juan scratched his tiny little head. I don’t think Uncle Rocky would go as far as torturing kids... Wait, that is not the point... “How do we help daddy?”

The two tiny things got lost in their minds. One of them rested his chubby cheeks on his hands as he thought while the other one frowned.

After a while, Juan suggested they ask for Davin’s help.

Kyle scoffed and spat three precious words, "He is useless."

Davin caught Kyle saying that, but the former shrugged. I'm not useless, okay? The b*tch is just too powerful. I still can't figure out how that Sylphiette got the renowned Mr. Seet to condone her terrible behavior.

Despite that, Davin still helped his two nephews come up with ideas.

"Okay, I'm useless, but a certain someone can definitely help. It all boils down to whether or not the two of you can get that person to help."

The two kids turned around. Juan looked surprised when he saw Davin there.

Kyle, however, remained cool and glared at him without saying a word.

"Kyle, I'm your uncle, not your enemy, so it's not nice to look at me like that."

Kyle's expression changed from distant to downright annoyed and discriminating after hearing what Davin said. The former even rolled his eyes at his uncle.

Davin suddenly felt like the kid's distaste towards him had just intensified.

That previous glare was fierce, but at least it wasn't piercing.

"Alright, alright, we'll pretend I never said that last bit," said Davin before he turned to Juan and added, "You understand what I mean though, don't you?"

Juan scratched his teeny head as he thought about it. His beautiful, dark eyes shone with revelation when he blurted, "You meant asking grandma to help!"

"Smart boy. Your grandma is the only one who is able to knock your dad out, and it is a joy to watch."

"Then we'll go ask for grandma's help right away."

Juan stood up to walk up the stairs, but Davin reached out to stop him and give him some advice.

Juan giggled and promised, "Don't worry, Uncle Davin."

After saying his piece, Juan dragged Kyle along, and they went to their grandma's room.

Sophia was lying on the bed with her mask on at the time. She even lit up a scented candle and was relaxing both her body and soul.

Two tiny figures suddenly barged in and ran to her side.

Kyle greeted coolly, "Grandma."

Juan was quiet for a moment before his eyes turned watery. His incredible acting talent kicked in, and he sounded devastated when he called out, "Grandma..."

His watery eyes were especially heartbreaking, and Sophia was knocked out instantly. She turned to him and asked, "Oh, my sweet boy, what is it? What's wrong?"

"Grandma, if daddy marries that witch and she becomes our stepmom, we will definitely be tortured."

"Stepmom? Now that is just not true. Your daddy will not marry that woman."

Sophia was surprised to hear that. Who told the kids such things?

"Grandma, I don't want daddy to marry that woman. She is a witch!"

Kyle chimed in suddenly, and his tiny face glowed to show how serious he was.

“It’s true, grandma. Stepmom will hit us and will turn into a big, bad wolf. She will eat us up!” insisted Juan, whose tears slipped out of his eyes. Kyle thought about how terrible things would be if his dad actually married the woman, and he couldn’t help crying as well.

Sophia’s heart shattered when she saw her two precious grandsons crying like that. She kept cooing endlessly, but the two little things were stubborn. They kept crying no matter what she said.

Davin walked in at that moment and saw the two kids crying so pitifully. He sighed and mentioned, “They must’ve been traumatized by Sylphiette’s bullying.”
