The First Heir – Chapter 1654

Philip's temper flared. After all, he was the heir of the Clarke family, and even this chamber of commerce belonged to him. Although he kept a low profile, he could not allow these bugs to harass and look down on him.

"You're pretty tough, huh?"

The security captain, Dave Carter, looked at Philip with sarcasm.

Was this silly kid not right in the head?

Did Philip not see his people standing behind him? How dare he act tough? He was simply putting himself at gunpoint and looking for death!

"Come on, boys, kick him out for me!"

The corners of Dave's eyes froze as he said viciously, "It's really an interesting day today, meeting a blind idiot with no foresight."

In a flash, several security guards rushed over and pushed Philip to drive him away.

Suddenly!

An angry rebuke rang out at the entrance of the Uppercreek Chamber of Commerce!

"Stop it!"

Hoyt Luther had run down with his assistant. As soon as he went out, he saw a group of people surrounding Young Master Clarke. By the looks of it, they were going to drive him away!

This was a mutiny!

This bunch of fools!

"D-Director Luther, what brings you here in person?"

As soon as Dave saw Hoyt, he immediately bent down to greet him respectfully.

However... Smack!

Hoyt slapped Dave's face fiercely, causing the latter to become dizzy!

"I'll take care of you later!"

Hoyt gritted his teeth before trotting to Philip. He stood at attention, bent over, and bowed at 90 degrees. He respectfully greeted, "Young Master Clarke, sorry I'm late and caused you to find yourself in such a situation."

Thump!

Ruby Ford, who was at the side, was already antsy the moment she saw Hoyt. At this moment, she was completely flustered when she heard Director Luther addressing Philip as Young Master Clarke.

“Director, what are you doing? Why are you so respectful to a bankrupt loser?”

Ruby made the last struggle as she asked incredulously with a hint of surprise in her beautiful eyes.

“A bankrupt loser?”

Hoyt turned around and looked at Ruby coldly until the latter’s legs went weak.

Then, in front of the crowd, he solemnly introduced to everyone, “This is the founder of our Uppercreek Chamber of Commerce, Young Master Philip Clarke!”

Uproar!

All the security guards and Ruby dropped their jaws in surprise, their faces full of disbelief and shock!

“This... How is this possible?”

Ruby was flustered, her eyes flickering as she scanned Philip back and forth.

Ruby immediately retorted, “Director Luther, you must be mistaken. I know this guy and he’s nothing but a loser. He’s the live-in son-in-law of the Johnston family in Riverdale and his wife’s name is Wynn Johnston. I know him very well. He’s just a bankrupt young master. How could he be the founder of the chamber of commerce?”

This was absolutely impossible! Philip was nothing but a wimp.

“Ruby Ford! Are you saying I’m senile and recognized the wrong person?”

Hoyt’s face went cold and snorted.

That snort made Ruby short of breath from fear. Her knees went weak and she almost stumbled to the floor, not daring to look Philip in the eye at all.

How could she doubt Hoyt’s words? He was actually the founder of the Uppercreek Chamber of Commerce?!

Was he not bankrupt? Was the news she got wrong?

“B-Brother Clarke, I’m sorry. I was wrong.”

Ruby bit her red lip and walked up to Philip, bending over at 90 degrees.
