

Chapter 2418

This was the base camp of the Hall of the Sun that belonged to the 12 Sacred Halls of the West. It was a large green training field with some building facilities hidden in the dense forest, as well as some battle tanks, armored vehicles, and fighter jets parked on the airfield.

At this moment, extremely strict training was being conducted with nearly a hundred shirtless men on the training ground.

At the forefront of this group of people, a man in a green combat uniform was lying on a beach chair.

His face was covered with a hat, and his eyes were closed in rest. A golden badge that symbolized the sun hung around his neck. His figure was not too tall but full of bulging muscles that deterred others.

Suddenly, his walkie-talkie picked up a signal. A woman's voice was heard, sounding serious. "Hans, come to the electronic warfare room!"

The tanned man with closed eyes said in a lazy and impatient voice, "Hey, Georgina, don't disturb my rare time under the sun, okay? Besides, you don't have the right to order me around!"

"Sh*t! Get over here at once! The boss is back!" On the other end of the line, Georgina was obviously impatient and angry, so she broke out a curse.

Swish!

The man named Hans suddenly sat up straight from the beach chair.

He abruptly took off the hat on his face, smiled foolishly, and asked in surprise, "The boss is back? Are you sure? I'll be right there!"

Then, Hans immediately got up and shouted to the nearly 100 people who were training, "Give me extra 500 push-ups!"

After saying that, he ignored the wails from the group and hurried to the electronic warfare room.

Meanwhile, in a square building, three Walls were full of electronic display screens.

In the middle, more than a dozen computers and high-tech equipment were placed. The surveillance footage covered various streets in Sedona and drone surveillance.

This was the electronic warfare room.

In this room, there was a sexy woman with fiery red and wavy hair dressed in a black leather outfit.

She sat in front of a central computer, tapping away on the keyboard. This woman was none other than Georgina, who spoke to Hans earlier.

Her hot figure and perfect face were better than certain celebrities!

At this moment, three men and one woman had gathered around her.

Hans rushed in from the door and shouted happily, "Georgina, where's the boss? Tell me quickly!"

When Hans rushed in, several people merely glanced at him before they silently focused their eyes on the electronic screen.

A frail man with black-rimmed glasses looked serious and composed.

He looked at everyone before he pushed the frame of his glasses and coughed. He said, "Okay, except for the marshal who's on a mission, everyone is here."

His code name was Strategist.

He was the brains of the Sun Hall.

His knowledge and strategies were unmatched.

Generally, when the boss was absent, he was the one who commanded the operation of the Sun Hall.

Once, he destroyed three dark forces under the 12 Sacred Halls of the West at a very small price. The strength of those three forces was ranked below the 12 Sacred Halls, and they had always wanted to join the 12 Sacred Halls to become the 13th Hall.

However, they once offended Fennel by mistake.

Hence, they were wiped out by the Strategist overnight!

In that battle, the Sun Hall became so famous among the 12 Sacred Halls that their ranking suddenly jumped to the top five.

It was because to be able to wipe out three forces capable of becoming the 13th hall overnight was enough to shock the entire West.

Chapter 2419

Hans was a little confused and asked, "Strategist, what's going on? Isn't the boss back? Why are you standing here?"

The strategist looked at Hans and explained, "We just received news that the boss was taken away by the people of SPEAR Bureau in Sedona, and the Hall of the Underworld is operating behind this."

"What? Those bastards from the SPEAR Bureau actually captured the boss? dare those bastards capture the boss? Do they want to die? "

Hans took off his hat in fury and roared, "Damn it! bring my men and destroy them!"

After saying that, Hans turned his head and was about to leave.

However, the strategist said, "Hans, come back! Listen to Georgina about the current situation!"

Hans was so angry that he could hardly wait and shouted, "Why listen to her? The boss has been captured by the SPEAR Bureau. We'll just fight our way in and demand his release!"

The strategist's face darkened as he barked, "Hans Gooding!"

Hans finally stopped. After all, the prestige of the Strategist in the Hall of the Sun was second only to the Sun God Apollo, Fennel Leigh.

Then, the Strategist signaled Georgina to report the situation.

Georgina retrieved the surveillance footage, as well as the footage before and after Fennel and the others were taken away. She said, "As of now, it has been more than 20 minutes since the boss and his friends were brought in. The manpower we arranged in the vicinity has been taken out by the Hall of the Underworld in advance, which is why we just received the news."

While saying that, Georgina pressed a few keys, and the electronic display screen switched to the real-time surveillance footage outside the SPEAR Bureau.

The screen was full of heavily armed guards, various combat vehicles, battle tanks, and even fighter jets!

Georgina pointed to the screen and said, "This is the current situation at the SPEAR Bureau. From the looks of it, the boss is fighting with them inside."

After listening to Georgina's report, the Strategist's face darkened.

He analyzed the strength of the armed forces on the surveillance screen and said to everyone, "How many people can we mobilize now?"

After they made their reports, Hans said, "Strategist, I have all my men! Let me go! I'll wipe them out in one fell swoop!"

The Strategist frowned and said, "You're too rash and can't hold back your temper. How about you go with Georgina? Remember, don't clash with them readily. Any action can only be taken at my order!"

“Do you want me to go with this big-as*ed woman? No, I’ll do it alone!”

Hans looked at Georgina, who had stood up with a face full of reluctance.

He and Georgina had never been on good terms because he did not like Westerners.

When Fennel brought Georgina back in the past, Hans had strongly objected.

Georgina stood up, her face full of chills as she stared at Hans. She squeezed her fist and said, “Hans, do you want to spar?”

“Let’s do it! Do you think I’d be afraid of you?” Hans answered.

Seeing that the fiery Georgina was about to fight with Hans, the Strategist glared at Hans and said angrily, “Stop arguing and make a move!”

With that command, Hans snorted coldly, turned around, and left , Georgina followed closely and walked out of the electronic warfare room.

The Strategist looked at the departing backs of the bickering pair and sighed helplessly as he said, “When will Hans accept Georgina?”

On one side, another woman with a sexy figure and shoulder-length black hair smiled faintly and said, “He’s still a child at heart.”

The Strategist shook his head, looked at the remaining few people, and said, “You should make a move too. If the Hall of the Underworld makes any movement, eradicate them at all costs!”

“Yes!”

Several people responded and walked out of the electronic warfare room.