

Sir, You Don't Know Your Wife Chapter 75

While Old Mr. Collins observed the lifelike painting in front of him, he could see that the overall look of the layout felt easy on the eye, as if it was painted by a master. Maybe the person is a hidden talent or a master within the industry?

"Sir, I'm innocent! How could I change the painting by myself?"

"Then, who did it? Is it one of our students?" Old Mr. Collins questioned Joshua.

Joshua shook his head. "I don't think so. I've never met her before. She looked especially tender and pretty!"

"Tender and pretty?" Old Mr. Collins was startled. Could it be that young girl whom I've just met? "Little brat, head and practise your drawing! I need to leave!"

He was so excited that he almost jumped up and down. Now, he wanted to check the security cameras to check whether it was the same person whom he had in mind.

When they returned to the Jackson residence, Janet could already hear Megan's exaggerated laughter.

"This is great! Look at how well-made the invitation card is. Old Mr. Collins certainly looks highly upon you."

However, Emily remained humble. "Mom, this is all because of you. It's because of the good education you have provided me; otherwise... I might be a farmer somewhere else."

Megan smiled awkwardly as she felt that her face ached while listening to her.

At the same time, Janet revealed a mocking smile. Does he really look upon her that highly? I've seen her drawings before. It's so awful that I even consider it as an entry-level drawing.

Suddenly, her phone's display screen lit up, and she realized that Lee had sent a message to her. I bet that it's a mission or something.

Lee: 'Janet, are you busy? Someone has requested your painting.'

'How much?' Janet replied to him calmly.

'20 million!'

Janet: 'I don't have the time.'

Lee: 'Janet, can you not be stubborn? 20 million isn't a small amount of money.'

Upon seeing how excited he was, she crossed her leg and replied. 'Who is that insightful person? Doesn't he know that my paintings usually cost at least 80 million?'

Lee: 'I don't know who the other party is because the person is anonymous. He requested a landscape painting from you.'

'A landscape painting?'

A landscape painting is quite difficult to draw and it takes time!

'Janet, do you want to accept the order?' he asked.

'I still have 20 million.'

She had made her words clear. I'm rejecting the offer.

In the meantime, he was envious of her. 20 million isn't a small amount of money. With her abilities, she can finish the painting in only 3 to 5 days! Doesn't she want the money?

Right after Janet put down her phone, Mason called her.

Instantly, she furrowed her brows, but she still answered it anyway.

“Old Madam Lowry is travelling abroad on Sunday. She says that she misses you a little, so can you come over to visit her?”

Janet suddenly remembered that the old madam had mentioned it to her a few days ago. “Alright. I’ll be there.”

She wanted to send her a gift, but she didn’t know what to buy. “By the way, what does Old Madam Lowry like?”

Obviously, Mason could hear that she wanted to give something to the old madam as a gift.

“She misses you, so just come over.” After that, he paused for a while. “If you don’t mind, being her granddaughter-in-law should be the best gift for her.”

Granddaughter-in-law?

Immediately, Janet was rendered speechless.

“What do you plan to give her?” She kicked her tiny feet lazily while asking the man.

“She is always fond of landscape paintings, so I plan to send her one from the modern artist—Nato.” His voice was deep and sexy.

“What?” Janet instantly jumped off her bed like a fish. She thought that she had heard him wrongly, so she asked again, “Did you mention Master Nato?”

Upon listening to her reaction, Mason had an odd feeling that she knew who Master Nato was. “Do you know her?”

“No.” She denied it immediately before following up on her words. “I’ve only heard about her.”

Her emotions were now in a strange place. If I’m not mistaken, Mason was the one who made the order through Lee! Why am I again considering his request?
