

Sir, You Don't Know Your Wife Chapter 1082

However, Janet's reply had shocked everyone.

"No."

Everyone's expression immediately stiffened. After exchanging glances among themselves, they asked, "Why? Is it because of the rumors you had with Mason?"

"Those aren't even legitimate rumors! Could the Lowry Family be that petty?"

"Probably it's not because of the Lowry Family, but more of J'Adore. After all, the fans for the Madore couple and Jason couple were caught up in heated arguments online."

"I can't believe it. Since the Lowry Family is petty, we probably shouldn't care about this!"

"Yeah, it's just an engagement party. There's nothing much to see. At the very least, we can watch the livestream. It's the same after all."

Janet merely smiled without saying another word.

Abby wanted to say something, but in the end, she did not do so.

Suddenly, someone let out an exclamation behind them. "Oh my gosh! Mason actually proposed to J'Adore last night!"

Since most people already knew about this, they were not surprised. "Oh, we already know about it. Twitter crashed a couple more times last night."

"Yeah. Apart from that, Mason really dotes on J'Adore as he has sent her so many gifts."

"Yes! Even though I support the Jason couple, I can't deny that Mason really loves J'Adore a lot."

“More interestingly, even Old Madam Lowry has shipped the couple herself.”

While there were people who knew much about the news, there were those who were completely unaware.

Sharon and Summer were part of the the latter group.

There were a few trending posts on Facebook and one of them was posted by someone called Black Python.

Black Python? Is this the person whom I know?

Curiosity had gotten the better of Sharon as she looked at the profile picture—it was a black image.

The official account of Black Python wrote, ‘50% of the firearms contract in Markovia is nothing to Young Master Mason! More importantly, the Lowry Family Conglomerate has also been transferred!’

Young Master Mason? Black Python works for the Lowry Family Conglomerate?

Sharon’s emotions suddenly became tense as she froze on the spot for a few seconds.

Black Python is part of the Lowry Family.

His boss is Janet’s boyfriend.

Does this mean that Janet's boyfriend is actually Mason?

Mason's girlfriend is Janet?

Could it possibly be...

Her eyes widened as she looked at Janet incredulously.

Could Janet possibly be J'Adore and J'Adore is Janet herself?

Janet and J'Adore are the same people?

Sharon suddenly felt as though she lived in a fantasy world.

After all, it had never crossed her mind that Janet and J'Adore were the same people.

If Janet is J'Adore, does this mean that Janet is the leader of the MX in Markovia?

She's only a first year student! I can't believe that she's the leader of such a powerful group!

Who would believe this?

Ah, I'm also an idiot myself.

Both Janet and J'Adore's names start with 'J'. How could I have missed this before?

All this while, she had never asked about Black Python's job. To her surprise, his boss was the most powerful man in Asia.

While grabbing the hem of her skirt tightly, Sharon opened her mouth nervously. "Janet."

Upon hearing her voice, Janet lifted her eyes to look at her.

At that instant, everyone in the room also looked over at them.

It doesn't seem appropriate to ask Janet about this in front of everyone!

Even if Janet is really J'Adore, they do not look alike at all!

Is there really transfiguration in this world?

After an internal battle with herself, Sharon retracted her question.

We'll know if Janet is J'Adore at the engagement party itself.

"What's wrong?" Janet asked after she looked at Sharon, who was in a daze.

"Nothing." Sharon hastily smiled.

Meanwhile, a few juniors walked past them while crossing arms with Tina.

They threw a glance at the medical school and mocked, "I wonder why everyone still likes Janet so much."

She didn't join the last surgery training, but she seems to be unaffected by it.

Tina pursed her lips with a dark look on her face.
