

My Wife is a beautiful Officer Chapter 486 - Chapter 486: Watch This Video

Chapter 486: Chapter 486: Watch This Video

Leena stumbled into the bathroom. Hearing the noise behind, Kevin couldn't help but turn his head to see Leena trip over the long sheet. Fortunately, she didn't fall down.

Kevin strode to pick up the bra that Leena dropped in a panic. There was a wicked smile on his handsome face. He knew that Leena would be upset once she realized that her bra was missing.

Sure enough, Leena pulled a long face when she couldn't find her bra. She muttered to herself, 'Come on! Where's my bra? I remember bringing it with me. Why can't I find it?'

Kevin stopped outside the bathroom. Pursing his lips, he cleared his throat and knocked at the door to attract Leena's attention. He could imagine how anxious Leena was in the bathroom.

Please wait a few more minutes. I'll be ready soon." Leena looked into the mirror sullenly, on the verge of tears. She racked her brain for solutions regardless of her restlessness.

Are you sure you only need a few minutes? Do you need my help? I have something in my hand." Kevin fiddled with the lace bra that he picked up from the ground. He didn't expect someone who seemed petite and cute like Leena to have avant-garde ideas and good taste for clothing.

Leena blushed at Kevin's words. Thinking of Kevin shaking his head at her bra in disdain, she subconsciously looked down at her small but plump breasts. She got angry at her carelessness.

"Give it to me." With a flushed face, Leena opened a crack in the door and stretched out her delicate hand. Her heartbeat pounded in her ears as her nervousness grew.

"The pattern and color look nice, but it's a bit small." Kevin smirked, placing the bra on her shaky hand.

So what? You're behaving indecently." Leena withdrew her hand as soon as she got the bra and immediately closed the door. To be sure, she deftly locked the door.

"Hey, do I behave indecently?" Kevin was stunned. He had always been a flawless man in the eyes of others. Why did Leena say that he behaved indecently?

Yes. Beyond the shadow of a doubt." Leena shivered at the thought of Kevin holding her bra between the fingers and staring at it with lecherous thoughts.

As the saying goes, he who wants to beat a dog will easily find a stick. It's difficult to get along with women and villains. Fine. I won't argue with you. Come out after you get dressed. I have to take a shower."

Kevin smiled helplessly. This was the real Leena, charming and energetic. Melancholy didn't suit her at all. Instead, she was supposed to be cheerful and outgoing.

"I'm ready." The mini skirt and chiffon blouse gave Leena a graceful, aristocratic and elegant temperament. The elastic high-quality skirt wrapped tightly around her hips, revealing her beautiful slender legs. The sultry and enchanting look was a lot different from her original fresh and refined style.

"Is this your dress today?" Kevin frowned. Leena's attire looked good, but Kevin didn't want her to flaunt herself like this. It made him feel very uncomfortable.

Is there anything wrong with it?" Leena looked down at her dress. She was a top designer at an international brand that had good taste for fashion and clothing. She was quite satisfied with the dress she designed herself.

"No. Go downstairs and have breakfast. I'll take a shower." Kevin's eyebrows were still furrowed tightly. As he said, her dress looked good, but it was too sexy.

"Aren't you supposed to be at work today?" Leena rarely saw Kevin in the daytime, so she walked out of the bathroom naked. Otherwise, she wouldn't be brave enough to do that.

"I take a day off. Why, don't you want to see me at home?" Kevin smiled gently, emphasizing his handsome, captivating, and evil look. Every excellent man boasted his own charm. One man's meat was another man's poison.

"I... That's not what I meant. I'm just curious. I'll go downstairs." Leena brushed against Kevin and stumbled down the stairs. Neither of them mentioned what happened last night. It was as if they deliberately tried to avoid it to cautiously get along with each other, but it didn't mean the matter no longer existed. They didn't mention it for the time being. It would surface at the right time.

"Mind your step." Kevin worriedly warned Leena to be careful. He followed her to the door and didn't feel relieved until Leena was safely at the bottom of the stairs. Then he returned to the room.

Leena's hand injury had almost healed, so she could do some simple work. She skillfully put the breakfast Kevin bought on the plates. She was so hungry that her stomach began to rumble, but she didn't eat the breakfast in a hurry. Instead, she quietly waited for Kevin like a proper lady.

Kevin was always busy with work, but he took a day off today. Deep in Leena's heart, she was excited about this. She took Kevin's care for her for granted and didn't think about why she needed his care. The smile on her face had happiness written all over it, but when she saw Kevin running downstairs in his olive-green military uniform, her face fell.

"Leena, I'm sorry. You have to eat breakfast alone. I have to go back to the base immediately for something urgent. I'll accompany you on the next vacation." Kevin quickly put on his boots as he explained to Leena. He didn't notice the subtle change in Leena's facial expression as he went out, leaving her lost in thought at the table. Kevin sped away on his Humvee and soon arrived at the base. He rushed to the commander's office after parking the car.

Commander, what did you mean on the phone? What did Hank do?" Kevin asked anxiously as he walked into the office. He was deeply worried about this matter.

Look. Someone sent a video. If I'm not mistaken, this is according to Mr. Mu's instructions, or it wouldn't request a severe punishment for Hank." The commander sighed. It seemed that Hank was in serious trouble this time. Would Daisy let him go as his colleague?

Does Daisy know about this?" Kevin picked up the U disk on the table and inserted it into the computer. After watching the video, he wondered if Daisy was aware of this. He knew that Hank was jealous of Daisy, but he didn't expect Hank to collude with people in society to achieve what he wanted. The anniversary celebration of the FX International Group put a stop to the rumors against Daisy, nipping his scheme in the bud.

She must be unaware. I've sent someone to inform her. No matter what, she's the one affected most by this. I don't think we should hide it from her." The commander wasn't certain if Daisy knew about the matter. Edward was her husband. He should have told her about it.

"Commander, what's wrong?" Daisy asked as she walked in. Since Kevin didn't close the door when he came in, Daisy didn't need to knock. She frowned unconsciously at the sight of Kevin. 'Didn't he take a day off today? What is he doing here?'

"Daisy, watch this video." The commander moved aside to make room for Daisy, so she could see the video more clearly.

"Who sent this?" Daisy looked calm after watching the video. She had doubts about Hank and Jessica, but she didn't know why Hank would do this to her. Was she really the reason why he didn't get promoted? His deep resentment must be the reason why he wanted to bring her down.

No matter how much Hank had provoked Daisy, she thought that he only desired to excel over her. She didn't think that he would be so narrow-minded. He assumed that he would get what he wanted and be promoted if he brought Daisy down. What a pity. Didn't he know that he had to pass various assessments before he could get a promotion?

You really have no idea of this? I assumed it was sent by order of Mr. Mu. I thought you would know something. Now I'm confused." The commander started to doubt if the video was sent by Edward. By the look of things, Daisy seemed to be ignorant of the matter. "Did he? I didn't even know that he had this video. When did he find out that someone filed an accusation against me?" Daisy was stunned. She didn't mention it to Edward, but it seemed that Edward knew about it. Mark most likely told Edward about it. He catered to Edward's wishes so much that it looked like he worked for Edward.

The background of the video is the anniversary venue of FX International Group. Someone clearly recorded the conversation between them. I think only someone who works for Mr. Mu would link the relationship between the two. Otherwise, who else would know you were being investigated in the army base?

Kevin analyzed calmly. He had carefully observed the security situation at the venue and found that it was heavily guarded. This must be credited to Luke. Luke was apparently Edward's bodyguard. Impressively, he considered every aspect of the security. He shouldn't be underestimated.

Chapter 487: Chapter 487: No One To Blame But Himself (part one)

"There's a reason behind his actions. He sponsored the military equipment purchase and invited the military officials to attend the anniversary party. He did these things for me, didn't he?"

Complicated feelings surged in Daisy's heart. She didn't know how to describe how she felt. Edward had done so many things in secret for her. Usually, she would be angry that he had kept everything from her. But at this moment, she wasn't upset at all. Instead, she felt warm-hearted. Was this how it felt to be doted on by Edward? He removed all the barriers for her and never talked about his plans to her. All he showed in front of her was his sweet concern. Sometimes, he pleased her through flattery.

"The sponsorship cooperation started before you were reported anonymously. We discussed about it during our meeting. At that time, we thought the president of the FX International Group was strange, because he didn't state any terms that would be advantageous for his company. He only reserved rights for one requirement. As for what he wanted in detail, none of us knew. But he promised that his requirement would not pose any threat to the army and cause any problem. He said it would just be a minor requirement. Now, I understand him. He reserved the rights for you."

The commander had a high opinion of Edward. He was young, but he managed such a big company. What's more, FX International Group was well-developed in every aspect under his management. Though it was a family business he took over from his father, it couldn't have developed into such a grand tycoon without his clever brain and diplomatic shrewdness. The FX International Group was currently part of the top 10 most powerful corporations.

"I don't know. He didn't tell me about it at all. I only found out about the sponsorship the day before yesterday." Daisy grew slightly flustered. She had talked with Edward about it yesterday morning. Although she had been a little aggressive at that time, she didn't blame him for it. She just didn't like it when he kept things from her. She understood that it was his unique way of protecting her. But she preferred to face all difficulties together with him instead of being under his protection.

Kevin's heart jolted at Daisy's words. This was how Edward loved her. He had spent a lot of money on a project for Daisy and he did it discreetly. He chose not to let her know so as not to trouble her. What a considerate man! All of Edward's actions showed his care and love for his wife.

Kevin knew that Edward was arrogant and domineering. He was extremely rich and was a resourceful and astute strategist in the business world. He was so particular that even his way of caring for and loving his wife was so unique. He must love Daisy deeply in his heart.

"Yes, Daisy. Now you know everything. Actually, the military officials should have been aware about your situation. Despite this, I'm afraid this video has to be handed in in order to reveal the truth and prove your innocence. Besides, the investigation department has been keeping an eye on this matter. If we don't show them the video, they'll never let it go."

The commander knew Daisy was kind-hearted. If Hank crossed her, there was a high possibility that she would let it go. But Hank was a narrow-minded man. He was worried that Hank might keep setting her up in the future, so he brought up handing the video in without waiting for Daisy's opinion. Sometimes, a commander's suggestion was more like a decision. In this case, Hank wouldn't be able to do anything similar in the future.

"You can deal with it by following the standard procedure. I don't have any opinion about this." Knowing that this was the result that Edward wanted, Daisy agreed with the commander's decision despite feeling pity for Hank. Edward would be disappointed if she chose not to hand the video in. He was the most important person in her life. She didn't want to see him unhappy. Besides, he had done all these things for her sake.

Good. I'll handle it later. As for Hank's punishment, we aren't certain. But judging from the cooperation between Mr. Mu and the military, I'm afraid that Hank won't get away with a slap on the wrist."

Hank had been working for him for a long time. Although he wasn't satisfied with him in many respects, he still felt some sympathy for him and didn't want him to end up with nothing. Though he was narrow-minded, he made a great deal of effort to reach his present position.

"He's supposed to know the consequences of his actions when he decided to do it. He should have no one to blame but himself. Commander, don't feel sorry for him." Everyone knew that Hank always gave Daisy a hard time. Kevin took a scunner against him because of it. He didn't feel sorry for Hank at all. Everything happened for a reason and Hank deserved what's coming to him. Kevin held no sympathy for Hank in any way.

Commander, I'll respect whatever the officials decide on. I don't have anything to say as long as I can be proven innocent. As for the details, I don't want to worry too much about it."

As a colleague, Daisy knew clearly how difficult it was for Hank to be in his present position. He must have strived a lot with his own sweat and blood. She wasn't the kind of person who hit a man when he's down. Although he was the one who started it, everything was moving along the projected path. Daisy decided not to be stubborn about it.

As for Jessica, since Edward already had this video, he must have known that Jessica had something to do with it. Daisy didn't know how Edward would deal with Jessica. Would he be merciful to Jessica because of their history? Daisy didn't care about it. It wasn't important to her. What she wanted was simple. As long as she could stay with her husband and son and live a happy life together, she would be satisfied. She didn't want to trouble herself with irrelevant things.

Meanwhile, Edward was looking out the thin glass window. He watched the clouds float across the sky. He was bored with his lonely life in the hospital. There was nothing he could do as a patient. He fiddled with his new cell phone. It was one of the latest mobile phones with a modern and unique design. But he wasn't used to it because there weren't any pictures of Daisy in it and he couldn't save one as the screensaver. He wanted to see her beautiful face every time he unlocked his phone. Now, the phone was just a cold electronic product to him. He'd rather watch the changing clouds in the sky. It would be more interesting.

Mr. Mu, Luke caught Edward's lonely face when he came in. He knew Edward must be feeling quite bored in the hospital. Otherwise, he wouldn't be showing such a dull and lonely expression. Luke anticipated that he would grow bored, so he went back to the hospital as soon as possible. But he first went to the suburbs after handing the video in, afraid that his men might torture Paul Du to death. Before everything was clear, he didn't want him to die.

Yes! you're back. How are things going? Edward tire his gaze from the clouds. He already anticipated the result. Although Daisy looked cold and indifferent, her soft heart might make her forgive Hank if he begged her. That was why he deliberately didn't tell her about it. He didn't want Hank to get away without any punishment after all the things he had done to set Daisy up. Hank was a sinister man who deserved no mercy.

Chapter 488: Chapter 488: No One To Blame But Himself (part two)

Daisy must have seen the video by now. Edward wondered how to explain it to her when she came back. He was a little worried that Daisy would be upset with him. After all, she had emphasized yesterday that she didn't like it when he kept things that concerned her from her. But what about now? He had thrown out a grenade. How would she react to it? Edward had his doubts. Moreover, there were more powerful bombs in the future. He felt like he was walking towards his deathbed.

"I didn't show myself. I asked someone to hand it in. But I think they must have figured that we have something to do with the video. Anyone with a brain could easily link it to us. Otherwise, there would be no one smart enough to manage other people's business. Besides, apart from the army and us, no one knows the tip-off about Mrs. Mu."

Luke looked at Edward with a firm gaze. He shared his reasoning and thoughts with Edward. No one in the army was mediocre. They could easily figure things out and find out a reasonable explanation for the whole matter if they put a little thought to it.

I'm aware of this. Besides, we did it because we want them to know that the video came from us. This way, they will have no excuse to cover someone up." Edward chuckled to himself. He didn't care about their thoughts. All he wanted to know was Daisy's opinion. As for the other things, he didn't want to waste his time pondering about it.

But Mrs. Mu..." Luke hesitated. He didn't know if Daisy would blame him because he hadn't discussed it with her before making the decision about the video. But it seemed that he didn't need to worry about it. Anyway, Edward would be the first person that Daisy would be upset with. Even if a meteor were to hit earth, Edward would be the first one to hold the responsibility. He had little to do with it.

It's fine. I'll explain to her. Tell me what you've gotten from Paul. I need to plot carefully as soon as I get discharged. A long delay may cause trouble." Edward didn't like staying in the hospital. He needed to find a way to recover quickly and leave the hospital at once. It was more convenient to deal with these things at home than in a hospital. Maybe he could ask Tom to go to his house and check up on him every day, so he wouldn't have to stay in the hospital anymore. Since Tom wasn't generous with his precious medicine, he'd better order some medicine from him. Daisy would most likely agree with him and prefer him to be at home as well.

"I've recorded what he said. Here you go." Luke took out his phone and played the recording from beginning to end. Edward frowned tightly as he listened to the contents of the recording. His eyes narrowed into slits, conveying a sense of danger.

Now he knew the truth. That was how they had treated a delicate pregnant woman. They didn't even feel any guilt about it at all. To make things worse, they had taken advantage of her and lived a luxurious life that they couldn't originally afford. Weren't they afraid that the dead would haunt them at night in their sleep?

What a tragedy! He was worried how Daisy would take this deadly blow. Her mother had been murdered with her unborn baby. Cruel demons! They didn't deserve to be called human beings. Even an animal would never do such brutal things. But they had done it with purpose. They harmed innocent lives to reap their benefits and live a comfortable and prosperous life. From beginning to end, they trampled on the lives of others for their own selfish interests.

What do you think about it?" Edward's lips trembled with anger. The victim was his wife's most cherished woman. He felt distressed for Daisy. He couldn't help feeling heartbroken at the thought that she was about to face this. If possible, he wanted to bury this brutal truth and never let her know about. Then, she wouldn't be burdened with the knowledge. But he couldn't do that because these monsters would remain unpunished. He couldn't make such a decision on Daisy's behalf. Daisy had the right to know the truth.

As far as I'm concerned, if Mrs. Mu were to handle this, she would definitely follow the laws strictly as a soldier. She will leave it to the police to take care of it. But it doesn't mean that there's nothing we can do right now. There's a great deal of things we can do to them before the police find them." Luke gave a snort of disgust. It would just be a minor punishment for the culprits if they were handed over to the police. But he didn't have a choice because Daisy wouldn't let them do anything besides surrender them to the police. In that case, he could at least torture them secretly before they were handed over. He wondered how psychologically strong they were.

Well, it seems that you've already got a plan." Edward rested his chin on his slender hand. He wanted to see how could Leo keep calm after learning of this. Now, even if he wanted to recognize Daisy as his own daughter, Daisy would not necessarily express any kindness or gratitude. It would be difficult for him to earn Daisy's forgiveness. He had hurt Daisy so much. How could she open her heart to him so easily?

Not really. I can only deal with Paul. He's the kind of person who displays cowardice when faced with death. As for a bitch like Yakira, no one is devious enough to handle people like her except you." Luke didn't mean anything else by his words, but Edward caught a different understanding when he heard them.

"Are you saying I'm more devious than her?" Edwards narrowed his eyes slightly as he looked at Luke. Oh, good. He was even compared to such a vixen! Was he such a despicable man in his eyes?

No, sir! Mr. Mu, I didn't mean it like that. You know how bad I am at getting along with women, unlike you. You've always been expert at dealing with them." Luke immediately explained. But he hadn't expected his response to cause even more dissatisfaction.

Oh, I see your point. So you mean to say that I'm always involved with women, right?" Edward said in a mischievous tone. Why didn't Luke keep his thoughts to himself? It would be a disaster if Daisy heard them. Daisy might think he was flirting around with other women! He couldn't afford living like that anymore.

I..." Luke immediately regretted his reply as soon as he spoke. He realized that no matter how he explained himself, Edward would find fault in his words. So he decided to keep silent and not say another word. The more he spoke, the more mistakes he might make. He would be safe if he didn't say anything.

No mre excuses? It seems that I read your mind;Edward quipped. He enjoyed occasionally teasing Luke who always seemed so serious. He considered it a way to relieve his boredom. After all, it was extremely boring to stay in the hospital all day long.

Chapter 489: Chapter 489: Rip Off (part one)

"Oh, Luke, are you out of your mind? How dare you act so cool in front of your boss?" Rain smiled playfully while leaning against the door. He had a pile of documents in his hands. Luke wondered why Rain had brought over so many papers here. Jesus, did he think that an ailing patient like Edward could effectively look over this much paperwork?

You're barking up the wrong tree." Luke rolled his eyes and sulked. He turned his back to Rain and decided against interacting with him. He was always quiet and was unwilling to argue with anyone.

Oh, Is that so? So do you think Edward was just teasing you?" After putting the papers on the table, Rain kept on ridiculing Luke. He wanted to test Luke's limits to see how far he could push him. For Rain, teasing Luke was one of the biggest joys of his life. Unfortunately, Edward was there, too. In the end, Rain failed to provoke Luke to violent rage, but he unwittingly offended Edward.

"Rain, what the fuck are you doing here during working hours? Go back to the office and get to work right away! Or I won't mind giving you a beating of a lifetime." Edward said menacingly. He stared at Rain with an intimidating gaze. 'Is Rain implying that he is a homosexual who has fallen for Luke? Maybe Rain doesn't have enough work to keep him busy.' Edward started thinking about the tasks that could be assigned to Rain.

"Damn it! Don't nag me. The papers need to be signed by you. If I can't come here, would you come to the office in person? I don't mind carrying you on the stretcher." Rain Xia shook his shoulders as he spoke. The implication was clear, he did this out of kindness. As a matter of fact, Rain hadn't even read these papers. Since Edward signed the papers, there was no need for him to review. He always did it like this.

"So you think I well enough to work now." Edward said in a low voice, with his beautiful eyes viciously sizing up Rain. He knew Rain was good at dumping the work on him. He wondered what excuse Rain had cooked up this time.

Come on, dude. You have just hurt your chest, not your brain and hands. I am sure you can write and think normally. Then why can't you sign the papers?" Rain was thinking about the two-month holiday Edward had mentioned earlier. He didn't want to accept that. Thus he had to allot the work to Edward before it was put into effect. He was not afraid of Edward's refusal because he was well aware that Edward was quite concerned about these programs.

Gosh! How can you say that? Rain, you are mistreating my recovering patient? Why are you so cruel?" said Tom. Tom had just come back from his ward round. He was wearing the doctor's white coat, with a stethoscope around his neck.

Jerry, I must admit that your medical skills are really poor! Edward has been hospitalized for many days, but he hasn't recovered yet. How can people call you a talented doctor when you are so bad at your job." So far as sharp tongues were concerned Rain was sure to be annihilated by Edward. But when it came to Jerry, it was a different story altogether.

You think it's not a big deal, just like a minor wound by a knife or a tiny bite by you? You brainless stupid jerk! Stop your pretentious rubbish, OK? It is in his heart. I am more professional than you. I would make you lie in the hospital bed in a second. Do you want a go at it?"

Tom rolled his eyes. It was fine by him when Rain was messing with Edward, but he couldn't stand it as Rain questioned his art of healing. In Tom's opinion, Rain was the most idle person who was stupid enough to pick a fight at the hospital.

Knock it off. I know you are going to be finished soon. You tricked Edward by providing him the unnecessarily extravagant ward. In fact, I believe you ripped him off, like someone who kills a pig to get the most pork. Money is all you've ever wanted." Rain smiled evilly, staring at Tom, but he didn't notice how dark Edward's face was.

"Aha, now you are dead, too," said Tom happily. At the same time, he carefully checked Edward's wound, making sure his body blocked Rain's view of Edward's angry face. He realized Edward was displeased and a thunderstorm was about to come, but Rain was unaware about it.

Just you? It's impossible for you to kill me. You are too weak." Rain planked himself into the sofa, crossing his legs like a wicked gangster.

What about him and me? Is that possible?" A cold voice whispered in his ears. Rain got so scared that he jumped up from the sofa in a flash. He didn't understand it, why was Mr. Mu telling him off?

"Err... It's highly possible. But in that case, would you do me a favor first? Tell me what I've done to upset you, my dear Edward." Rain Xia was confused and totally nervous. He craned his neck to peer at Edward. Even over Tom's low-hanging shoulder, he still felt as cold as falling into an ice house.

"Did you just compare me to a pig? Uh-huh!" In fact, Edward had declined this damned ward. But Tom had made great efforts to arrange him into it, and he finally had to accept it. But now Rain brought up the subject again. No wonder he was furious with Rain. Besides, Rain compared him to a fat pig. Edward had been away for just a few days, had Rain forgotten who the boss was?

"Err! I never said that." Rain shook his head, trying to recall what he had said moments ago. Suddenly he stared at Tom with his eyes wide open. Rain was disappointed with his dimwitted words. Tom continued to smile vaguely. Am I had by Tom? He thought quietly.

Do you remember now? Said Edward calmly with his eyes fixed on Rain. There was no smile on his face but a cold fury in his heart.

No! Je wouldn't admit it even if he got killed. Because that would be worse than being killed if he admitted his mistake. He was no fool.

Luke curled his lips mockingly. Rain was an excellent actor. He said it just a few minutes ago, but now he was pretending that he had lost his memory. It wouldn't work with a smart man like Edward.
