

Chapter 1339

Furthermore, if Sebastian was not actually with Lori, then Sebastian would feel like her questions were very strange.

That afternoon, Sabrina's heart could not remain calm.

Even Yvonne and Ruth who had lunch with Sabrina felt like something was wrong.

"Sabrina, what's wrong? You look so pale, do you have a fever?" Ruth placed her hand on Sabrina's forehead.

Yvonne looked at Sabrina with concern. "What is it Sabrina? What happened?"

Sabrina had a dazed expression. "Yes? Oh... It's nothing."

After knowing Ruth and Yvonne for such a long time, it was the first time she had ever seemed so helpless in front of the two of them.

"What happened?" Yvonne suddenly felt like the issue was quite severe.

Sabrina shook her head as she smiled at Ruth and Yvonne. She then suddenly grabbed her bag and walked outside. "I won't be having lunch with you today, I have something urgent I need to do."

something urgent I need to do."

After that, Sabrina walked away.

Yvonne and Ruth were speechless behind her.

The two of them looked at each other, and could not help but be concerned for Sabrina.

Sabrina had already walked to the underground carpark. She very rarely drove to work, and in the end it was because she was lazy and liked to rely on her man. After all, her man sent her daughter to kindergarten every day, then sent her to work. She was already used to it.

However, that day, he made her drive to work herself.

Sabrina's heart slowly sank.

The whole way, she drove very quickly.

In just twenty minutes, Sabrina arrived at the destination that Lori had mentioned: the Grand Sage International Hotel.

The hotel really looked like a high class one.

After parking her car near the car park, Sabrina sat in the car for five whole minutes before getting off because she was hesitant and uncertain.

Furthermore, even if she got out of the car and went to the lobby, where would she find Lori in such a large hotel?

She felt no assurances in her heart at all.

However, the less assured she felt, the more she wanted to look into it.

After staying in the car for five minutes, Sabrina got out of the car wearing shades and a baseball cap before walking into the reception at the lobby.

"Miss, are you here to stay, dine in, or do you have something else to do?" the receptionist politely asked Sabrina.

Sabrina stammered, "Could I ask, how... How many VIP rooms do you have... For dining in. Could I look at them all? I just want to look at the rooms that currently have people dining in them."

The receptionist thought that she had misheard, and the receptionist frowned at Sabrina. "Miss! What are you planning on doing?!"

Her tone was incredibly bad, and she was clearly chasing Sabrina away.

Sabrina was speechless.

Her request was indeed quite overboard.

Just as she was thinking about how she would find out where Lori and Sebastian were, Sabrina suddenly heard a bout of laughter.

That voice got Sabrina's attention.

When Sabrina walked toward the direction of the laughter, the voices got louder and louder.

There seemed to be three or four people.

"Uncle Ford, try this! This is the specialty of the restaurant." At that moment, Lori passed Sean a dish.

To Sean's left was Jennie, and Jennie did not seem to mind what her daughter was doing, and sweetly shouted, "Seany, you have to eat more okay."

Sean smiled very widely. "Alright, alright, I'll eat. I'm way too happy today."

"Dad?" Sabrina shouted out in disbelief.

Sean looked up and saw Sabrina, who was not far away. He was just about to get up and say something when a man suddenly walked over behind Sabrina.

The man hugged Sabrina, tenderly saying, "Sabbie, you're finally here. What is it? Your dad is here as well? I didn't know that you

To Sean's left was Jennie, and Jennie did not seem to mind what her daughter was doing, and sweetly shouted, "Seany, you have to eat more okay."

Sean smiled very widely. "Alright, alright, I'll eat. I'm way too happy today."

"Dad?" Sabrina shouted out in disbelief.

Sean looked up and saw Sabrina, who was not far away. He was just about to get up and say something when a man suddenly walked over behind Sabrina.

The man hugged Sabrina, tenderly saying, "Sabbie, you're finally here. What is it? Your dad is here as well? I didn't know that you found your dad yet."

Sabrina was stunned.