

The Mans Decree Novel Chapter 946-950

Chapter 946 A Favor

However, Kai pretended as if he had seen nothing and continued to say to Mr. Sanders, "This royal tomb site is right beside the current site, underneath the small hill. If I am not mistaken, the small hill is actually the heaped earth of the undiscovered royal tomb site."

His remarks sent the crowd into another uproar. The current royal tomb site had practically become a tourist site and was filled to the brim with visitors. How was it possible for the alleged royal tomb site to go unnoticed?

Mr. Sanders leveled a stare at Kai. "Chance, are you for real? Do you know the repercussions that await you if there is nothing there?"

"Mr. Sanders, I am willing to bear the responsibility for my words," Kai said calmly.

At the sight of his confident manner, Mr. Sanders started to believe in him, and the others were swayed as well.

Advertisement

After all, nobody would be that foolish to lie about such a thing to Mr. Sanders on such an occasion. Moreover, Kai was not a moron.

"Mr. Sanders, there truly is a tomb site underneath the small hill. However, I am not sure if it's a royal tomb site. I discovered it a while back. When I wanted to find out more, I bumped into this young man. He disrupted my investigation when I was using the Seven Star Formation. Otherwise, I would have reported my findings much earlier," Blake said as he rose from his seat.

Blake was the first to discover the tomb site, and he planned to scavenge the place secretly. However, he did not expect to bump into Kai there. Now, Kai was going to use the discovery as a favor to Mr. Sanders.

Blake felt indignant that Kai had taken his credit in the matter. Hence, he rose from his seat and tried to claim the credit for himself.

Advertisement

Everyone started to believe in Kai's claims right then. After all, the Henckle family explored tombs and graves for a living, and no other families could surpass them in the matter. Now that Blake had verified the location of the site, it was almost guaranteed that Kai's claims were true.

Mr. Sanders cast a glance at Blake and did not believe his claim that he would report his findings. He knew for a fact that these great families would not openly share the resources that they have found. However, Mr. Sanders said nothing.

“Okay. I will send someone to investigate. If there is truly a royal tomb site, you will have made a great contribution, Kai,” Mr. Sanders said before he strode outside.

At the sight of Mr. Sanders leaving, everyone stood up to send him off.

Theodore brought Kai along to see him out.

“Kai, you have to be most careful when you’re at the pinnacle of success. Others’ protection would only last a short while. You are the only one who could truly protect yourself,” Mr. Sanders remarked as he patted Kai’s shoulders before getting into his car.

Kai understood Mr. Sanders’ message and nodded slightly.

He knew he would have to be stronger to survive in the cruel society. Depending on others’ protection was not a sustainable plan.

The others left the hall one by one after Mr. Sanders had taken his leave. If not for Mr. Sanders, the Department of Justice would not have been able to invite such a respected crowd.

Advertisement

“Kai, don’t think that I will forgive you just because you’ve found a strong backup. I will never let you off the hook for cutting off my arm. Just you wait and see,” Kristoff gritted through his teeth.

“Whatever,” Kai said nonchalantly.

Kristoff boiled with fury at his response. However, he dared not strike Kai at such a place, especially after Mr. Sanders’ warning.

“Kris, let’s go.”

Steinar called out after his son to leave. He was afraid that Kristoff might not be able to restrain himself and hit Kai.

“Dad, are we going to let Kai off the hook just like that?” Kristoff asked indignantly after leaving together with his father.

Slap!

Steinar slapped him across the face just after Kristoff asked him the question. “Bst*rd! Did you know you almost sent us all to die back there? How dare you question Mr. Sanders? Haven’t you seen that Zion Zeigler dared not even let out a breath in front of that Mr. Sanders?”

The Mans Decree Novel Chapter 947

Chapter 947 People You Offended

Kristoff covered his face and said with an upset tone, “So I lost my arm for nothing?”

“Don’t worry. Since we can’t kill Kai openly, we’ll do it in secret.”

Steinar’s eyes flashed with murderous intent.

Meanwhile, Zion and Ryker had just exited the Department of Justice. They froze for a moment when they saw Kai. It was obvious that there was something they wanted to say to the man, but none of them said anything.

Right then, Blake shouted furiously at Kai, “You bast*rd! You stole my thunder. You’d better give me an explanation today.”

Advertisement

He was the one who found the ancient tomb originally. However, the latter had gotten ahead of him and announced to others first. Therefore, it was only normal that he would get so angry.

“Be more specific, Blake,” Zion said when he saw the angry man making his way over.

Even though Blake had roughly spoken about what had happened at the celebration party, it was evident that Mr. Sanders didn’t believe in his words. Otherwise, the latter would never have given all the credit to Kai.

“President Zeigler, I was the one who found the ancient tomb. I was inspecting the tomb when that bast*rd found me,” Blake started to repeat the timeline of the incident in detail. Then, he continued furiously, “But he went ahead of me and told everyone about the tomb first. Doesn’t that mean he stole the credit that was supposed to be given to me? I hope you can stand up for me, President Zeigler...”

Advertisement

Taking a look at Kai, Zion said, “Is he telling the truth, Kai? If he is, then I think we should have a discussion with Mr. Sanders regarding this issue.”

“Yes,” the former said and nodded his head without any hesitation. “However, he didn’t actually inspect the tomb. I was the one who did it. If he had really inspected it, why didn’t he report it to you immediately after I left? Could it be because the Henckle family wanted to keep the tomb for themselves?”

“What a load of crap! I... I...”

Blake had no idea how to explain himself. After all, a few days had already passed since this incident happened. He knew all too well why he didn’t report to the Warriors Alliance right away.

“There was no way you could confirm that it was an ancient tomb. After I left, you must have gone and checked it out yourself. However, you still couldn’t tell if it was an ancient tomb. That’s because I used an arcane array to hide it. There was no way you could locate it.”

Kai instantly exposed him at the sight of how agitated he was.

“I... You...” Blake was left speechless. In the end, he seethed through gritted teeth, “Just you wait, you bast*rd! I’ll teach you a good lesson sooner or later!”

With that, he left in a huff of anger. As for Zion, he was looking at Kai with a knowing look and said, “You’ve revealed too much of yourself, and that is not a good thing. Even if there are people protecting you from behind, it will not guarantee your safety. You’d better watch out.”

He left after he was done speaking, and Ryker stayed silent throughout, not saying anything to Kai. All he did was look at the latter with a smile that did not reach his eyes.

Advertisement

Everything was peaceful once more when everyone finally left.

“Mr. Chance, even though Mr. Sanders has spoken up, it is still better if you be careful. I realize that you’ve offended quite a lot of people...” said Theodore, looking at Kai helplessly.

“The road to cultivation is long, and there will always be obstacles in the journey. If everything went smoothly, I’m afraid there’s no way we can grow,” the latter said with a slight smile.

Theodore couldn’t understand why Kai did that. He guessed he was only doing this so that he could get more resources. There was no way he could avoid any of these if he wanted to get stronger.

Kai was unable to take a long time to cultivate because his mother was still suffering. Even though he had never met her, he knew that she loved him. As her son, it was his responsibility to save his mother.

The Mans Decree Novel Chapter 948

Chapter 948 Relaxed

Seeing how the man was acting, Theodore realized that he had changed a lot. He used to look down on the young man, but he did not even realize that he had started to look up to him.

Meanwhile, Ryker was on his way back to the Deragon residence with a grim expression on his face.

“Mr. Deragon, Mr. Sanders has already spoken up. What should we do?” Godrick whispered.

“We’ll do what needs to be done. All Mr. Sanders said was to not kill Kai, but he didn’t say that we can’t capture him. What I want isn’t his life. I just want his identity. Do you understand?” the former said.

“Understood!” Godrick said with a nod.

Advertisement

There was no point in killing Kai. All Ryker needed to do was capture him and confirm his identity. Then, he can use Kai to threaten his sister, Beatrice. His priority right now was to find out the secret he had been trying to find out for more than twenty years.

“Bring some men with you and head to the place Kai mentioned to have a look around. Bring some stuff with you and give them to President Zeigler if you’re sure that the Trial will be held there. If it’s an imperial mausoleum, then there must be quite a lot of treasures in there,” he said coldly.

“Understood. Don’t worry, Mr. Deragon!” Godrick said.

He would be attending the Trial this time. Everything that was being done now was for his own sake, so there was no way he wouldn’t take it seriously.

Advertisement

Kai didn’t stay in Jadeborough for long after the celebratory party. Instead, he returned to Horington with Rayleigh and the others.

Before arriving at the city, the man stopped by the Medicine God Sect to make some jet melding cream.

He then left for the hospital once he was done making the cream. Tommy and Phoenix's subordinates were elated when they saw that he had arrived.

Once he entered the ward, Kai saw the pair lying in their beds. Though they were still unable to move, they had finally regained their consciousness and were able to communicate normally. They were just unable to move about because the bones in their bodies were all broken.

There was even a cigarette hanging on Tommy's lips. A subordinate stayed by his side and helped him flick the ash from his cigarette from time to time. The man looked so relaxed despite his condition.

"Tommy, you're now crippled since all the bones in your body have been crushed, but you're still in the mood to smoke?" Kai asked with a chuckle.

"You can resurrect the dead, Mr. Chance. As long as I'm still breathing, I'm not afraid," the bedridden man replied with a cheeky grin.

All the former could do was give him a resigned smile before pulling the tub of jet melding cream out. "You seem sure that I can save the both of you. Let's see if you can still smile if I have no way of saving you."

Once he was done speaking, he passed the cream to the subordinate beside him. "Divide this into two parts. Leave one part for them to eat, and another part for them to apply. Remember to do this once every day!"

Advertisement

"All right, Mr. Chance!" the subordinate said politely as he took the cream.

"What's that, Mr. Chance? Why does it look black and sludgy? It's not bad for our skin, is it?" Phoenix asked worriedly.

Kai did not expect the woman to be worried about her skin when she was in such a condition. He couldn't stop himself from laughing. There's no way of guessing what she's thinking at all.

"This is jet melding cream. It can help to regrow and heal your bones. Besides, it can even enhance beauty, making your skin as smooth as a newborn baby's."

Hearing that, the woman couldn't help but feel excited. "Leave more of that jet melding cream for me. You can just leave a part for Tommy to eat. There's no need for him to apply it. Look at his dry and flaky skin. It's going to be useless on him," she said to the subordinate holding the tub of cream.

At that, Tommy rolled his eyes, and the two of them began bickering with each other.

A resigned smile surfaced on Kai's face at that. He finally left after staying for some time. With the jet melding cream, Tommy and Phoenix would only need a week and they could finally start moving about again.

The Mans Decree Novel Chapter 949

Chapter 949 Closed

At Dragon Bay.

Upon getting news that Josephine and Lizbeth were returning, William and Walter were all rushing to get back.

It had been a long time since William had last seen his daughter. Seeing that she was finally back, tears streamed down his face as he pulled her into a tight hug.

Josephine noticed that her father seemed to have aged tremendously, and she blamed herself for it. After all, she had neglected her own father when she was busy following Kai around.

"I'm sorry, Dad. I'm so sorry for making you suffer alone..." she said, apologizing profusely.

Advertisement

"Silly girl. I know that you were doing great things with Kai. Even I can tell the change in you now that I've gotten a look at you."

William felt so happy for his daughter. Anyone would be glad to see their children achieve great things.

At the same time, Walter was holding Lizbeth's hand tightly. His favorite granddaughter had also changed a lot, and he was relieved to see her like that.

Kai was deeply moved by the scene before him. He didn't know whether it was right or wrong of him for having Josephine and Lizbeth leave their families to travel around with him, and he wondered if he had been too selfish.

Advertisement

Fortunately, they were all gathered together now and having a rare moment of bliss.

He also introduced Rayleigh to William and Walter. They were both so grateful when he told them that the man had been taking great care of the two ladies.

At night, William purposely prepared a feast at Glamor Hotel, and the group happily sat together to have a meal.

After dinner, Josephine and Lizbeth returned to their own homes to rest, while Kai brought Rayleigh, Lyanna, and Melanie to his mansion at Dragon Bay.

He planned to let Rayleigh live there from then on. Even though Horington was a small city, Dragon Bay was still quite a beautiful place and was a great place to stay after retirement.

Once everyone had settled down, Kai took out a beast core. It was from the Heaven Devouring Beast, and since he was now a Top Level Senior Grandmaster, he might be able to achieve the rank of a Martial Arts Grandmaster after eating the beast core. Then, a golden core could finally be formed in his body.

Once he explained everything to Rayleigh, he returned to his room and sealed the room. He was planning to close himself off for some time so that he could have a breakthrough as a Martial Arts Grandmaster.

Since Mr. Sanders has spoken up, this period of time should be safe. But I don't know how long this safety net can last, so it's best if I take this time to cultivate.

Although Rayleigh had lost his powers, white wolf, along with Josephine, Lizbeth, and Lyanna were around. If an enemy were to confront him, they could protect him. That was why he had nothing to worry about.

Advertisement

After taking a look at the crystal clear beast core, the man then swallowed it without any hesitation.

Immediately after, spiritual energy exploded in his elixir field. A golden light began illuminating from the draconic essence in him as it seemed to have been attacked.

The spiritual energy from the beast core and the draconic essence was about to rupture Kai's elixir field, and it continued to pierce through his body.

He quickly activated the Focus Technique, constantly absorbing these spiritual energies. Cold sweat covered his forehead, and his body was expanding and contracting as though it was a rubber ball.

Feeling an immense discomfort, the man's brows knitted tightly together. He knew that both his mind and his body would have to go through a great test in order to achieve such a great feat. If he was unable to persist, it might even backfire, leaving him dead as a result.

A golden light began illuminating from his body, and the Golem Body was used to its limit.

Relief surfaced on Rayleigh's face when he saw the golden light coming from inside the room.

The Mans Decree Novel Chapter 950

Chapter 950 Capture Him

Three days later, Zion posted blasting news on the Warriors Alliance forum.

“An imperial mausoleum was found in the suburbs of Jadeborough. This is the biggest mausoleum to have ever been found. After some investigation, we found that there were no traces that it was robbed. The Warriors Alliance has decided to hold the Trial at the imperial mausoleum, and we will be sending out the invites later. To the prominent families and clans, kindly prepare yourselves as the Trial will be starting in ten days.”

The news sent the whole of the martial arts world into a frenzy. An imperial mausoleum had actually been found in Jadeborough. Besides, it was also the biggest one to have been found. One could only imagine the magical items that could be found in a mausoleum that was never robbed.

Almost all the great families and clans were getting restless as they began their preparations. Everyone of them hoped that they would be invited to the Trial.

In the meantime, Ryker had gathered all of the higher-ups of the Deragons in the hall of their residence.

Advertisement

The Trial this time was unlike the other ones, so it was only normal that the Deragons would prioritize it.

“Godrick, I want you to tell the elders the information you got,” Ryker said.

“Yes! I've brought some men to inspect the place, and it is indeed an imperial mausoleum. Once we dug up the mounds on the tomb, revealing the door, gusts of wind started to blow, and we could hear noises from the inside. No one knows what is in there. However, the Warriors Alliance have already sent their men there, so we can only get near it during the Trial. I've sent President Zeigler some gifts and got an invitation list from him. Here, please take a look, Mr. Deragon, elders.”

As he spoke, Godrick pulled out a stack of documents and put one in front of everyone.

Advertisement

One had to know thyself and thy enemies if they wanted to reap the greatest benefits from the Trial.

Scanning through the list, Ryker's brows began to furrow further.

"Is there something wrong, Mr. Deragon?" Godrick asked anxiously.

It was a hard-earned opportunity for him to be able to participate in the Trial. He couldn't let anything go wrong.

"Kai is also on the list?" the former asked.

"Yes. I've already asked President Zeigler about it. Apparently, Mr. Sanders had instructed it. After all, Kai was the one who found the mausoleum and told him about it. Kai has many enemies. If he attends the Trial, there's no way he can leave the place alive with the little capability he has."

Ryker's face darkened at that. He needed the man alive because only then would Kai be of use to him. If he died in the mausoleum, he would be worthless.

"Then, should we protect Kai during the Trial?" Godrick asked carefully.

"No. This Trial is no small matter. How could we waste energy to protect him? With such a huge imperial mausoleum, there must be a lot of magical items in there. We'll have to snatch up everything as soon as possible. Otherwise, the other families will take everything," Ryker said, shaking his head without hesitation.

Advertisement

"Then, what should we do?" Godrick was torn.

After thinking about it for a moment, the latter looked over at the elder on his right and said, "I need the help from the five of you. I need you to head to Horington and capture Kai. However, you'll have to do this in secret. It is best not to reveal yourselves. We can't have him attending the Trial."

"Understood," the guardian replied before leaving with the rest of the guardians.

The five of these guardians had powers surpassing a Martial Arts Grandmaster. Their powers were equivalent to that of a prominent clan, and it was evident how powerful the Deragons were.