

Chapter 3766

"This?" Amelia Su frowned, quite puzzled.

Because this place obviously deviates from the road that goes all the way north into the Burning Bone Land, and even to a certain extent, it belongs to the category of getting lost.

It was completely on the right road, and suddenly it turned into a place in the other direction.

And judging from the map, that place should be an extremely remote barren place, surrounded by continuous mountains.

"What are you doing here?" Amelia Su asked.

George Han smiled lightly: "Do you remember the person who looked for me last night?"

Amelia Su nodded and seemed to understand something: "That means, there are some things you can't tell me, it doesn't matter, you plan to go I'll accompany you."

George Han smiled happily: "Of course it's best if you can accompany me, but can you persevere? After all, you haven't had a good rest these two days."

"You're going to die!" George Han squeezed his hand and said in a sullen voice.

"Then let's go tonight." George Han smiled.

"Tonight?" Amelia Su asked slightly suspiciously: "Do you want to be so fast? I have your healing and recovery is very fast, but everyone's recovery is relatively slow. I have to go here with you this evening, will it be too rushed? Is it?"

George Han shook his head: "I didn't plan to take them with me. How dangerous the place is, everything is unknown. If the trouble is too great, I'm afraid it will cause unnecessary trouble, and I may not be alone. I can take care of them."

"I think we will go together as a husband and wife." George Han looked at Amelia Su.

Amelia Su nodded: "Isn't this two-person world a little too romantic, too romantic to be full of excitement?"

George Han smiled slightly.

"Let's go to eat first, go to this barren land, I don't know when I will be able to eat." Amelia Su finished, put the map on George Han's hand, and took George Han's other hand directly towards go outside.

The husband and wife went all the way out of the City Lord's Mansion, found a restaurant, and asked for some things to live in their own world.

After lunch, George Han accompanies Amelia Su to the streets again. After buying some basic necessities, he buys some gadgets, which is a rare leisure time.

After all, such trivial matters in life may have long been considered trivial to others, but to George Hanliang and his wife, it has been a long time since they lived in the two-person world like this. Although George Han's wealth is enough to buy anything in the entire city, there are some things that money can't buy. In the evening, the two people's things were basically ready. With Amelia Su, George Han's storage ring was basically stuffed with a lot of various daily necessities.

It is big enough to eat and drink, as small as firewood, rice, oil, salt and vinegar. George Han called Mo Yang over and handed the Book of Heaven to him, and told him that he was going to go out for a few days, so that he could take his brothers here to recuperate. As for the city defense, George Han also explained that Mo Yang had to play 12 points. Although it should be extremely safe to fall into the city in a short period of time, after all, even if the opponent wants to counterattack, they still need time to organize their forces and make plans.

But everything is afraid of the unexpected, so it is necessary for George Han to take precautions in the future. This is George Han's style of doing things all along.

After these arrangements were made, George Han went to visit the wounded.

Except for Qin Shuang and Mo Beitian, in general, although they have not recovered, they are at least in a stable recovery. As for Qin Shuang and Mo Beitian, although they are still in a coma, their basic physical conditions are optimistic.

Mo Beitian needs a long period of recuperation, and Qin Shuang and Amelia Su meant to wait for the extraordinary situation in the sky before making plans, so George Han couldn't be in a hurry.

Now that the situation was stable, George Han finally felt relieved and planned to set off at night.

When the east gate slowly opened a gap, the couple also held hands and officially walked towards the vast land outside...

Chapter 3767

night is dark and the wind is strong.

It was always like this at night in the land of the demons. Afraid that Amelia Su would be uncomfortable, George Han had been putting on the energy mask on the two of them almost since they left the city.

Amelia Su rolled her eyes: "You don't plan to use this support until we reach our goal, do you?"

"I did plan to do so." George Han replied very honestly.

Amelia Su couldn't help but rolled her eyes directly: "Husband, it's not such a waste to have mines at home, right?"

"How is this a waste? I use it to protect us, this is to prevent too cold and cause physical discomfort, These two are also the most important, my wife is thin-skinned and , if she doesn't protect her, what should I do if it blows rough?"

Amelia Su silently rolled her eyes, but her heart was very sweet.

“Smooth talker, let’s get down to business. According to the distance on the map, we estimate that we won’t be able to reach this so-called land of dragons until tomorrow night. I mean...”

“Flying?” George Han asked.

Amelia Su nodded: “Although your layout on the side of the city is indeed clever, but after all, the situation has just stabilized, and there are still so many wounded soldiers in the city. I am worried that we will be away for too long. In case of external pressure, we will arrive. The situation in the city will become unpredictable at that time.”

George Han nodded, Amelia Su’s words also made sense.

“Okay.”

Holding Amelia Su’s hand, George Han moved directly, and Taixu’s step moved, and the two suddenly rushed towards their destination with a sudden speed increase of several hundred times.

The stars moved in the night sky, and after several hours passed, the two officially reached the end of the straight line, and then suddenly

The direction changed greatly, towards the endless mountain range.

“This place really makes people feel hopeless.” In mid-air, overlooking the rolling mountains under his feet, the more he looked, the more Amelia Su couldn’t help sighing.

Yes, these continuous mountains are continuous, but each mountain is bare, without the slightest color, and without the slightest anger. When you look at it, it is naturally dead, and it makes people feel abnormally suffocated.

“There are no people in thousands of miles. Anti-Buddha has entered the land of death.” George Han nodded.

“When I was on Earth before, I went to those no-man’s land. At that time, I thought it was a dead zone, but compared with the scene of the land of the demons, I realized that nothing is a big witch.” Amelia Su said.

George Han nodded. If there is a real definition of barren land, then this should be the perfect interpretation in the true sense.

In the surrounding scenery, all things are not born, and to put it bluntly, it may be absolutely impossible for even a microorganism to exist in this place.

This is like the moon that George Han knows about.

In a dark area, except for the rocks and mountains, there is nothing else.

“Is it really here? I really don’t understand, what is the purpose of him letting you come to such a place.” Amelia Su said.

George Han doesn't actually know, but because he is a dragon, George Han believes in him, so even though George Han is a little numb at the moment, he still chooses to grit his teeth and go deep into the core area of death.

Another about an hour passed.

When Amelia Su had confirmed that the two had come to the very center of the mountain, George Han finally stopped.

"There's nothing in this place, three thousand." Su

Amelia Su dazzled her eyes, completely disappointed.

Really nothing.

"Did he say something iconic, or find someone?"

George Han shook his head: "He didn't say anything, he just let me go to this place."

"The problem is..." Amelia Su said again . end.

There is nothing in this place, just come here without a goal, what's the point?

"I'll take a look." George Han finished his words, moved his hand slightly, opened the Heavenly Eye Technique, then cast his eyes and looked around...

Suddenly, just as George Han swept across, his eyes stopped at most central.

Under the eyes of the sky, he could vaguely see that there was something faintly emitting a faint red light under the ground there.

"Let's go." Pulling Amelia Su, George Han jumped and dived!